British Turn Back Air Attacks On London Today

German Raiders In New Attempt To Bomb London

Hundred And Fiftieth Air Raid Warning Sounds During Morning

LONG RAIDS ARE MADE IN NIGHT

Large Force Of Nazi Raiders Battled High In Air By By R. A. F.

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Sept. 23.—For the 115th time since the war began air raid sirens sounded in London today as Nazi raiders once more struck at the British capital after carrying out two damaging raids during the night.

British fighting planes engaged the raiders, keeping them well away from London, and the alarm was of short duration. London remained absolutely quiet while the alarm was in force.

It was reported that a large force of Nazi bombers crossed the Kent coast near Dover and that a few moments later they were met by R. A. F. fighters which engaged them in a series of air combats at tremendous heights. It was believed that several planes were shot down, including a German Messerschmidt-109.

Brilliant sunshine bathed Dover and the adjoining southeast English coast. The sea was calm and the wind came from the southwest.

One German plane attempted to make a reconnaissance flight over Southampton during the morning. It flew into a terrific anti-aircraft barrage and fell smoking into the sea.

A few vapour trails also were seen at high altitudes near London, indicating that enemy planes had penetrated close to the capital. Anti-aircraft batteries outside the city went into action briefly but no bombings were reported.

Cascade Park is certainly a picture of perfect scenic beauty these days with the slow approach of the fall season. It is strange that more persons do not take advantage of the beauty at the park and plan more outdoor snacks and family gatherings. One advantage of the park at the present is the absence of the bothersome summer insects.

Berlin Has New Air Raid Alarm

Three Waves Of British Bombers Penetrate Northern Germany

(International News Service)

BERLIN, Sept. 23.—A two-hour and 20-minute air raid alarm that ended at 2:15 a. m. today (8:15 p. m. E.D.T. Sunday) sent Berlin residents to shelters for the first time in more than a week.

Heavy anti-aircraft fire apparently kept the raiders from the center of the German capital.

"Three waves of British bombers penetrated northern Germany from Holland," said an official communique.

"Several planes reached as far inland as Brandenburg, where they encountered the outer ring of the greater Berlin anti-aircraft defenses.

"At some points the British planes were engaged by night-flying German fighting planes patrolling over Berlin. These fighters were supported by anti-aircraft batteries at Potsdam and Oranienburg.

"Owing to the heavy, well-aimed anti-aircraft fire the British planes did not dare attempt to penetrate the barrage and turned back after dropping parachute flares. No bombs wer dropped."

The first salvoes of anti-aircraft fire were heard to the south of Berlin shortly after midnight. More than an hour later another group of raiders tried to reach Berlin, drawing even heavier fire than the first.

Report At Least Twenty German Planes Shot Down In Latest Drive On Coast

By FRANK BUTLER

A SOUTHEAST COAST ENGLISH TOWN, Sept. 23.—At least 20 German planes were shot down in pieces or in sheets of flame today when more than 200 Nazi bombers and fighters raced across the channel coast for a new attack on London.

Squadrons of Spitfire and Hurricane fighters engaged the raiders in a series of dogfights that raged for more than an hour over a wide area of the channel coast. Most of the German losses were a lighter dive-bomber type than used previously.

Break Up In Disorder

One detachment of 50 German planes was broken up in disorder.

Watchers along the sea-coast told of an unusual incident. After a thrilling combat, a Hurricane pilot forced his adversary down into the sea. The German flier was thrown into the water by the impact of the crash but remained afloat in his

Nearly 300 Lost As British Refugee Ship Is Sunk In Atlantic

By ROBERT G. NIXON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Sept. 23.—All Britain burned with anger against Nazi Germany today as the government disclosed the torpedoing, allegedly without warning, of a refugee ship aboard which 83 children and 210 adults lost their lives.

Sunk In Mid-Atlantic

The unarmed vessel, carrying its passengers to safety in Canada, was sent to the bottom in mid-Atlantic by a German submarine last Tuesday, Sept. 17, an officials announcement said.

Sailing through storm-tossed waters and massive waves, the vessel plunged beneath the surface 20 minutes after she was struck by a torpedo in the dead of night.

Ninety-six British boys and girls were aboard the ship but only 13 lived through the disaster. Altogether 406 persons—191 passengers and 215 crew members—were aboard the ship. Of these 113 survived, including 18 women and 82 men.

Among the 293 who perished was Col. Baldwin-Webb, a British parlimentarian.

Second Refugee Ship Sunk

This was the second time the sinking of a refugee ship has been revealed. On Sept. 2, a refugee vessel with 320 children on board was sent to the bottom, but on that occasion only one life was lost, that of the purser.

In last Tuesday's tragedy, seven of the nine men and women escorts conducting the children to Canada lost their lives.

Early this morning survivors were put ashore at several ports in western Scotland and northwestern England.

Newspapers, commenting angrily on "inhuman" methods of warfare, urged parents of British children not to give up plans for evacuating the youngsters.

Many of the survivors drifted in lifeboats for more than 15 hours be-

Rural Home Is Fire Damaged

Four Fire Companies Combine To Battle Flames On Sunday Morning

No. 2 fire company from this city the newly organized Neshannock township fire department, and New Wilmington and Shenango Township, joined in an effort to save the home occupied by R. L. Homer and family on the Mitchell Road in Neshannock township, from destruction by fire Sunday morning at 9:40 o'clock. A loss of around $2,500 on the building and contents was sustained, which is covered by insurance. The owner is S. A. White, of Boston avenue.

According to Mr. Homer, he had discovered a small fire in the cellar a short time previous to the main blaze, and thought that he had gotten it all out. Evidently the blaze had worked its way in between the poists and ate its way up to the second floor, where it spread out.

When the firemen arrived, the blaze had assumed serious proportions, Fire Chief James E. Thomas of the local department stated. However, the new volunteer fire company of Neshannock township, kept the booster tanks of the New Wilmington and New Castle trucks well supplied with water and the blaze was finally conquered. Shenango township firemen also did yoeman service. The blaze was confined to the second floor of the house for the most part, but this portion of the home was badly damaged.

Girl Dies In Iron Lung Here

Mercer County Authorities Probing Mystery Surrounding Death Of Farrell Girl

STRICKEN FOLLOWING NIGHT CLUB VISIT

Dr. James L. Biggins of Sharpsville, Mercer county coroner, is conducting an investigation into the circumstances surrounding the death of Sue Malenky, aged 25, of Farrell, Pa., who passed away in the iron lung at the Jameson Memorial hospital Saturday night at 11:45 o'clock, after she had been rushed here to be placed in the respirator at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

According to Dr. Biggins, the girl was brought to the Buhl hospital early Saturday morning in an unconscious condition, after she had become violently ill while reportedly making a trip to Warren, O., and Masury, O., night clubs with her boy friend.

A hand respirator was used at the Sharon hospital, and when breathing became more difficult, she was brought here and placed in the respirator.

A chemical analysis is being made of the contents of her stomach in an effort to shed further light on the cause of her illness.

The body was taken back to Farrell to be prepared for burial following her death here Saturday night.

Iron Lung Youth Is Proud Father

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—Fred B. Snite, Jr., Chicago's famous paralysis victim who has lived most of the last four years in an iron lung, today was the proud father of a baby girl weighing 8 pounds, 5 3-4 ounces.

"Proud is such an overworked word in connection with fatherhood" said a nurse at the hospital where the infant was born shortly before noon yesterday, "but it certainly fits Mr. Snite. He seemed terribly excited."

The baby was born by Caesarian operation to the former Teresa Larkin of Dayton, O., whom Snite married Aug. 10, 1939. The operation was performed by Dr. Edward M. Davis, University of Chicago obstetrician.

Both mother and child were reported doing well today. The baby was described as healthy and husky, with light brown hair and blue eyes.

Northwest Hears Willkie Address

Power Question Is Discussed By G. O. P. Candidate In District

MAKES VISITS TO OREGON-WASHINGTON

By WALTER KIERNAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 23.—In this area where public power is the most momentous political issue and the attitude of candidates for office carefully examined on the subject, Wendell L. Willkie today indicated that if he is elected President, the Bonneville and Grand Coulee dam projects, major plants in the New Deal federal power program, will be completed.

In advance of Willkie's visit to the Northwest, he has been represented as opposed to the completion of the two plants. The fact that as president of Commonwealth & Southern corporation, one of the largest utility holding companies in the world, he drove a hard bargain with the government before selling out the Tennessee Valley Power company, necessary for the completion of the TVA project, lent credence to the story.

Willkie's Statement

Today Willkie in his lone major speech in Oregon, told an audience in the civic auditorium:

"The United States government has invested some 270 million dollars in the development of Bonneville and Grand Coulee dams. It seems inconceivable, therefore, that anyone would suggest that these projects should not be completed. In connection with this great navigation and reclamation project, large quantities of power are developed. This power obviously should be disposed of for the benefit of the public.

"The people of the variouos political sub-divisions of Oregon and other states within transmission distance of this project should determine how they wish the power distributed, whether through existing distribution systems municipally or privately owned.

"If the people desire it to be sol dxeclusively through public agencies, then some appropriate machinery should be set up for determining the fair price to be paid for the existing privately owned system.

"Whatever the method of distribution this great reservoir of cheap

Two Men Killed In Arsenal Blast

Explosion Occurs At U. S. Army Arsenal Near Dover, N. J. This Morning

(International News Service)

DOVER, N. J., Sept. 23.—Two men were killed and 11 others were injured, none seriously, when an explosion rocked the U. S. Army arsenal at nearby Picatinny today.

Sabotage apparently played no part in the blast. The explosion occurred as arsenal workers were taking apart fuses of shells manufactured during the World war.

"This work is recognized as a dangerous job," sail Col. A. S. Buyers.

One of the workers was killed instantly, Colonel Buyers added, the other dying enroute to a hospital. Of those injured, most suffered only minor scratches and were given first aid treatment at the arsenal dispensary.

The building in which the explosion let go was damaged, "but it definitely was not wrecked," Colonel Buyers said.

Monster Bomber Sent By Nazis

(International News Service)

A new monster 4-engined bomber, protected by a large force of Messerschmitt fighters, led a formation of three waves of bombers crossing the coast at great height today.

Eye-witnesses who watched the raiders approach through binoculars were amazed at the size of the huge plane, and described the other bombers as seeming like gnats in comparison.

Squadrons of spitfires engaged the German raiders, however, and when last seen the monster plane was headed back towards the channel with British planes in hot pursuit.

HILLSBOROUGH, Cal., Sept. 23.—Prying into the twisted mind of surly, hook-nosed Wilhelm Jakob Muhlenbroich, 40, German alien, authorities today sought the background—possibly race vengeance—of his frustrated ransom-kidnaping of 2½ year old Marc De Tristan, Jr., heir to a French title and a great American fortune, as the rescued child played cheerfully in the courtyard of the palatial De Tristan home at Hillsborough.

The confessed kidnaper, who had the boy in his custody for two days, yesterday was captured, and his little victim released, in a wild and wooly western episode in the gold-laden high Sierra Mountains of '49 fame near Placerville, Cal., about 160 miles east of Hillsborough.

Nazis Deny Sinking Refugee Ship

Berlin Enters Denial Of Charge

Seeks To Place Blame For Sinking On British, In Statements

ASSERT SUBS NOT ACTIVE 600 MILES OUT

By PIERRE J. HUSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, Sept. 23.—The German government today disclaimed responsibility for the torpedoing of a passenger refugee ship with the loss of 293 lives, accusing Great Britain of starting a "tear-jerker plot" to arouse American sympathy.

An official spokesman charged that the British government may have loaded evacuees aboard an armed merchantman which was liable to attack under the German-proclaimed blockade.

"If this was done," the spokesman said, "it was with the deliberate intention of precipitating such an incident to serve propaganda purposes in gullible America."

(Editor's note: The British government has not identified the torpedoed vessel.)

Deny Attack

German naval circles declared that no nazi submarine or warship has attacked or been permitted to attack any passenger vessel recognized as such either in or out of the war zone. No such incident has yet been reported by German naval craft anywhere, it was said.

Only armed merchantmen will be attacked in the war zone without warning, it was said.

With regard to British assertions the ship was torpedoed 600 miles at sea, no German U-boat is operating at any such distance, it was said.

JAYWALKING DANGEROUS

(International News Service)

CINCINNATI, O. — Enforcement of Cincinnati's ordinance against Jaywalking, assailed by Councilman Nicholas Klein and others, is defended by City Manager C. O. Persons who cross streets at points other than regular crosswalks are being arrested and in some cases fined.

fore they were rescued after watching companions die before their eyes from exposure and exhaustion.

The children aboard the torpedoed ship were between five and fifteen years old. Most of them came from London, Liverpool and other cities frequently attacked by Nazi air raiders.

An official communique issued by the children's overseas reception board said "fullest precautions" had been taken for the safety of the child refugees but that "tragic circumstances defeated all precautions."

Many of the children were killed instantly by the explosion. Others died in the lifeboats before they could be rescued by British warships which dashed to the scene.

Geoffrey Shakespeare, undersecretary for Dominions and chairman of the evacuation board, rushed to a northwest port to see to the care of the child survivors. After interviewing both children and adults, he said:

"I am full of horror and indignation that any German submarine captain could have found it within him to torpedo a ship more than 600 miles from land in a tempestous sea. The conditions were such that there was little chance for the passengers, adults or children, to survive.

"This deed will shock the world. It is another example of the barbarous methods of warfare associated with Nazi Germany and it is only comparable to their present brutal and indiscriminate bombing of women and children in London."

London and subjected the city to one of the heaviest assaults it has experienced.

Thirty different London areas were hit in these two raids, in which the German bombers did not concentrate on any single sector. A number of fires were started but quickly extinguished.

Throughout the night London police conducted a search for fifth-columnists exposing lighted windows and other mysterious signals as a guide to the raiders.

Incendiary bombs fell on one London hospital, causing minor damages but no casualties. A high explosive bomb fell nearby and demolished several homes. It was feared several people were killed by this blast.

Two other bombs hit a roadway, throwing a huge concrete section on top of and through a roof of an adjoining building where a six-year-old child in bed escaped unhurt.

Evacuees Killed

At least seven persons were killed in southwest London when another high explosive bomb demolished a building housing evacuees from homes threatened by time bombs.

London't anti-aircraft batteries kept up an almost incessant roar as they erupted shells at the attacking planes.

One German bomber, which received a direct hit, exploded in mid-air early this morning over an eastern suburb.

While the Nazis pounded London, according to an official announcement, British bombers once again pounded the German 'invasion bases' along the French coast. This statement said:

"R. A. F. bombers attacked enemy-occupied bases in France and Belgium and important targets in Germany last night."

Two alarms sounded in London during the night-time raids—the 113th and 114th the capital has experienced.

Nearly 8-Hour Raid

The first all-clear sounded early in the morning after an alarm that lasted nearly eight hours. After a brief respite the warning sirens sounded again. Two whistling bombs fell in the London area, followed by brief spells of gunfire in the central section of the city.

A short time before residents were able to leave their shelters seven bombs whistled through the air and exploded near the center of the city.

Many bombs fell in widely scattered districts and several inside the central part of London. The raiders, coming over in a steady stream, aroused anti-aircraft batteries to furious action.

Business premises, a parish hall, a motion picture theatre, a dance hall, shops and workers houses were hit and it was feared that casualties had been caused.

Several southeast coast towns also were bombed during the night.

Air Ministry Communique

An air ministry communique said: "Enemy activity last night consisted of attacks by single aircraft with the London area the main objective.

"The attacks on London were scattered and damage was caused to industrial premises in several localities where there were a number of casualties, some fatal.

"Bombs also were dropped on southeast England. In three towns damage was done to houses, there were some casualties and some people were killed.

"A few bombs were dropped on other parts of the country, causing slight damage and a few casualties."

During the attacks on London the Germans dropped what seemed to be a new type of bomb, sulphurous missiles which filled the whole sky with a curious glow that lasted at least three or four seconds. It was believed these bombs were some new type of incendiary weapon.

Prior to last night's renewed British air attacks on German targets and German bases along the French and Belgian coasts, it was announced, the R. A. F. carried out heavy dive-bombing attacks on at least 15 German military ships at sea not far from the British coast.

What a queer land. We try to provide a better living for workers, yet permit the owners of slot machines to rob them of millions every month.

MATTSON CASE BEING REVIVED

ed today that the FBI was minutely tracing every step of Muhlenbroich's past, particularly the five-year period since he entered the United States on January 18, 1935, from Vancouver, B. C., under a German quota.

Taken on December 27, 1936

It was on the night of December 27, 1936, that the Mattson boy was kidnaped from the living room of the Mattson home by a man who broke into the house through a French window, terrified Muriel Mattson, then 14, and Alice Chatfield, her friend, and threw a ransom note demanding $28,000 on the floor of the room.

Not only because Muhlenbroich apparently was in the Pacific northwest at the time of the kidnaping, having entered the United States from Vancouver, but because the tactics used in both kidnapings were similar in some respects—the FBI men were intensely questioning Muhlenbroich.

Same Procedure

It was pointed out that after he snatcher the little De Tristan boy from his nursemaid last Friday noon, he threw the note at her feet, much in the same fashion that the ransom demand in the aMttson case was thown on the floor in front of little Charles Mattson's sister.

On January 11, 1937, the search for the Mattson boy abruptly terinated when Gordon Morrow, a young rabbit hunter, found the frozen body of the child in a snow-filled underbrush near Neverly park, six miles from Everett, Wash.

Earl J. Connelly, chief investigator aide of No. 1 G-Man J. Edgar Hoover, personally directed the hunt in the Mattson case. The details of the crime were at his fingertips as he questioned Muhlenbroich today.

FRENCH INDO-CHINA IS ENTERED BY JAPS

effect that Japanese forces entered Indo-China as the result of an agreement with the French government.)

Has "No Designs"

A Japanese foreign office spokesman said that Japan has "no designs" upon Indo-China but merely desires to settle the "China affair." The spokesman said he did not know whether the agreement between Japanese and French authorities provides for later withdrawal of Japanese forces from Indo-China.

According to the spokesman, the border skirmish was believed to have resulted from failure of French authorities at Hanoi, Indo-Chinese capital, to relay orders to French commanders at the frontier.

The spokesman said that Japanese and French Indo-Chinese authorities had agreed at Hanoi to permit Japanese forces to enter the French colony on the afternoon of Sunday, Sept. 22.

This entry, it was stated, has now been made successfully at the border 100 miles northeast of Hanoi. It was necessitated as a means of action against China and is not based on any Japanese territorial ambitions in Indo-China itself, the spokesman insisted.

He added that Nippon's forces crossed the border only after consistent patience and forbearance on their part and that Japan will entertain no objections from other countries.

Some auto drivers appear to believe that they have special privilges. The grandeur of Pennsylvania is attracting guests from out of town, many coming from great distances, and Sunday, Pa Newc numbered among a group of twelve who endeavored to get a glimpse of the beauty right around in the immediate vicinity, by going for a canter on horseback. The hidden trails, virgin woods and by-ways, along babbling streams, off the main highways, are indeed a treat, and residents can be doubly proud of the beauty of their own country, especially this time of year when the leaves are taking on their autumn colors.

Picture taking yesterday was a noticable hobby, being put into action, because of the exceptionally fine bright and sunny day. In traveling about, Pa News noticed many getting out cameras and taking family groups, and picturesque scenic spots.

REPORT AT LEAST TWENTY GERMAN PLANES SHOT DOWN

flying suit and two soldiers swam out from a beach half a mile away and held him up until a motorboat arrived.

The sky battle was precipitated when patrolling British fighters intercepted four waves of Nazi bombers and chasers that roared in from across the English channel.

Nazis Hurled Back

Led by the crack "Yellow Nose" squadron of Messerschmidts, the German air armada ranged all up and down the coast in an attempt to blast a hole through the aerial defense and streak on into London.

Repeated onslaughts were made at various points along the Kent coast, the Essex coast, and the Thames estuary, but in each instance waiting British fighters hurled the German planes back with heavy losses.

At the height of the battle numerous parachutes dotted the sky as both British and German pilots bailed out of their wrecked machines.

It is much safer to have two parties. Otherwise we'd have nobody to dig up and expose the other fellow's sins.

QUESTION

How many young people, who are employed, and older people also, would be willing to give up a very small amount of their luxuries and pleasure, and help some of the unfortunate people to get a bite to eat, a place to sleep, and all of this in a Christian Institution, where many a soul is saved.

All we ask these people, who are willing to do this, is to sign a pledge card that they will give 25c a week to the City Rescue Mission to help with this wonderful work. Thousands of people would never miss one show, a few cigarettes or many other pleasures, in order to help in this wonderful work.

NO MAN EVER INDISPENSABLE

BELIEVERS in true democracy, unbiased by partisanship or swayed by extenuating circumstances, Republicans and Democrats alike, will heartily agree with John W. Davis, the Democratic presidential nominee of 1924, when he says he would not trust "the expanding, the fateful powers of the presidency" to any man for more than eight years.

Appearing before a senate sub-committee in support of a proposed constitutional amendment to limit presidents to one term of six years, Mr. Davis, an attorney, said in a prepared statement:

"I care not how others may feel, but for myself the man has not yet been born of woman—and I use that phrase because it includes both the living and the dead—the man has not yet been born of woman to whom I would entrust for more than eight years at the most, the vast, the expanding, the fateful powers of the presidency of the United States."

We thoroughly agree with Mr. Davis as must the vast majority of traditionally free and independent Americans when he refuses "to believe that in this land of general enlightenment, any man in any post is ever indispensable."

"I would tremble for my country if such a thing ever came to pass," Mr. Davis continued. "And I shall tremble quite as much if such an idea can find lodgement in the minds of the American people. It strikes at the root of all our national ideals, all our public professions, all our boasted capacity for self-government.

"We have become sterile indeed if we cannot produce at any and all times the men we need to fill our public offices; so sterile indeed that we would then no longer deserve the liberty we would not longer have the will to protect."

A highly-esteemed and veteran leader of the Democratic party, these words increased weight with a Democratic administration in power and a president seeking a third term under the Democratic banner. Yet every true Republican would speak likewise under similar conditions. He could not do otherwise and still remain true to the principles of democracy.

WAR BRINGS SOAP FAMINE

War is dirty business in more senses than one. The soap problem appears in Italy. Only one kind of laundry soap is now permitted, and not very much of that. It is an unpleasant soap, too. There are similar restrictions on toilet soap.

The problem has long been still more serious in Germany. One of the chief hardships there is inability to keep clean on the slender soap ration. This comes from a lack of fats. There has been some relief lately, since Germany has been able to get fats from the western countries taken over. But the army, as usual, is supplied first, and cleanliness is a serious problem to a cleanly people.

LONDON WANTS DEEPER SHELTERS

Almost two weeks of practically incessant aerial bombardment of London hasn't smashed the morale of her people but apparently has given them a cause for complaint. Newspapers demand improved air raid shelters and "better arrangements" for the daily lives of millions of Londoners who may be forced to spend a large part of the winter underground.

What is wanted chiefly is deep shelter, proof against even direct hits, which can be kept warm, dry and sanitary. Even a few months ago, however, the need for such protection didn't enter the mind of the average Englishman. In fact thousands of British home owners disdainfully refused to erect the "Anderson shelters."

The unprecendented bombing of London has educated the British viewpoint. Flimsy or makeshift air raid shelters are of little value in a great city besieged, as the British capital is, day and night. The Churchill government will be hard pressed to meet the demand, though it must be met unless the mounting casualties from bombs are to reach enormous proportions and be augmented by a terrible toll from disease.

CONGENIAL AUTUMN

Enjoyment of delights of the present permits no intrusion of nostalgic longing for the beauty of May or of June, pleasant though these months are as interludes of burgeoning splendor in the vast countryside and the garden. It would be rash, indeed, to attempt to minimize, even in infinitesimal measure, the joyousness of spring or its heartening effect upon the spirit of man, usually at a low level after the bleak months of winter. The season is well deserving of every hymn of praise sung by its ecstatic votaries.

But—and this brings this discourse to the point—there is a great deal to be said for autumn, which frequently brings summer in a new setting, one that is radically different from the conventional, but is nonetheless striking in its appeal. With a temperature struggling steadily toward eighty, it is difficult to reconcile the season with the poet's concept of melancholy days, "of wailing winds, and naked woods, and meadows brown and sere."

Unhappily, all that will come later. For the present, autumn offers a setting, atmospheric and scenic, of unalloyed delight. "How bravely," the poet, Hood, has said, "autumn paints upon the sky the gorgeous fame of summer which is fled." But the busy season does far more than this, as anyone who casts a discerning eye upon a wooded hillside will realize.

Nature, as the spectacle reveals, has been vested in her robes of russet and yellow, scarlet and purple, with here and there a spot of green that resists for a time the inexorable processes of transformation, while a mild breeze carries the incense of burning leaves. All of this, of course, is preliminary to decay, to the death of flower and leaf, and the flight of birds. But it is a gorgeous season while it lasts.

In addressing a letter to a representative in the United States congress, if should read "The Hon. Mr. So-and-So."

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

FAIR PLAY FOR THE TEACHER

While there are some horrible teachers most are of very high grade. My own children were fortunate to have many excellent teachers in the public schools, from the kindergarten through senior high school.

During the first few weeks of school we parents can do much to further or hinder the success of our children at school and the success of his teacher. This child, especially in the lower grades will talk freely of her, often admiringly, some times critically. And he will make frequent comments about his observations and experiences at school.

Lisen And Learn

Naturally we may learn a great deal as we listen. But we need to remember that the child is talking in terms of his limited experiences and wisdom: also in terms of his childish prejudices. Without meaning to misrepresent or deceive he may render very inaccurate accounts of his teacher and school.

Being human, we parents are inclined not to take into account impulsive, prone to pass judgment right away, and with clearly incomplete evidence at hand. Accordingly, we easily might respond to his reports in such a way as to make him suppose his is a very poor teacher and school. In case this child reports what he considers unfair treatment of himself by the teacher and school, a mere word, gesture, or mere look from the parent might magnify the unfairness to large proportions in the child's mind.

Just consider what might happen with more unfavorable reports by the child from day to day embellished with his imagination. Won't he then grow less respectful toward the teacher, antagonistic even abusive of her? And won't the teacher's attitude rebound accordingly. How can your child or mine grow best in citizenship at school when he thinks we consider his teacher unfit to teach him since we condemn and criticize her in his presence—and solely on the basis of what he has reported concerning her?

Be Discreet

My fellow parent: When your child reports anything about his teacher or school which you disapprove, let him talk so long as he is not discourteous. Listen thoughtfully, but express no disapproval of the teacher or school then. There will be instances, indeed, when you can and should set the child straight right then and there. But if you believe some matters at school deserve your attention, wait a day or so until you have regained complete self-mastery, praying for poise in the meanwhile. Then without the child's knowing it beforehand go to the school to ascertain the facts not to condemn and abuse.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

"KING" OF FRANCE

A handsome man, with fine eyes, a goatee and military mustache, died last month in Tangiers. He was the Duke de Guise, with blood so blue it could be used in fountain pens; and to a handful of dreaming French royalists he was King of France.

To those worshipful royalists the Duke de Guise was a wronged man, who lived in an unhappy exile, deprived of his ancient "divine right" to the "throne" of troubled France. As to the "King" himself, one wonders whether he wasn't pulling the royalist faction's collective leg!

All his life, the "King" lived peacefully and at his ease on kingly estates in Tangiers. Quiet and undisturbed in his "sad" exile, he saw thrones collapse, kings flee, nations overthrown. In his last picture the 66-year-old exile's intelligent face expressed contentment, peace and a sly complacence.

It was probably okay with him that his title of "King of France" always had quote marks around the "King".

KINGBIRD INSTINCT

The planes came over on their practice round;
Banked in great circles; dove towards the ground;
Rose to great heights and thundered overhead
While hawk and eagle terror-stricken fled.
Far off for safety sped the thieving crow
Having no heart to face so fierce a foe.

Then suddenly, above and just behind,
I saw a speck of black to fight inclined,
A little kingbird, conqueror of the crow,
Battler of eagles, dared at least to go
And David-like with courage rare try
To down those roaring giants of the sky.

Time after time above the monstrous things
The tiny kingbird rose on fearless wings,
Of course in vain against the rush of air,
But still the bird had heart enough to dare
Until at last the war planes disappeared
And I who'd watched the battle stood and cheered.

Hold out, Britain. The longer you fight them off, the more willing the timid will be to join you.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 5:57. Sun rises tomorrow 5:49.

Many a mother is convinced that she did not win much of a matrimonial prize, and is determined to see that her daughter does better than she did.

Recently a woman hung out her shingle labelled "Antinques." She heard a little boy explaining to other kids: "I don't know what it is, but she's got 'em in a room."

Mr. Willkie is running for president and not for dictator.

The trick in controlling a husband is to have him desperate enough to accept peace at any price, but not quite desperate enough to skip or see a lawyer.

From one or our classical friends comes a recipe for happiness. He says that simplicity, sincerity and seriousness add up to what everybody is really seeking. Some may agree he is right, but it is argued that a little humor will not be out of place in such a recipe.

It is claimed that there are sixty different kinds of mosquitos. One kind is too many.

THEN AND NOW

In horse and buggy days small boys were not allowed to play or make noises on Sundays, so they sat at home in parlors and listened to their papes and mames tell stories. And then if they wished to get real exciting they would clasp hands and recite this one:

This is the church,
This is the steeple
Open the door, and
There are the people.

A young chap was apologizing to his dancing parter. "I am not dancing so well—just a little stiff from badminton."

"My dear man," replied the woman, "I'm not a bit interested in where you came from. All I ask is that you keep off my feet."

We asked a little chap to tell us the impressions he got the first time he attended church. He said he liked it pretty good but he didn't think it was fair for one man to do all the work and then have some other men go around and collect the money for it.

The richest girl in the world eats spaghetti two times a day. Well, she knows one thing that is good.

"Is Elsie your oldest sister?" The young man asked the little girl. "Who comes after her?" "Two or three other guys besides you," said the child.

The foreigner kicked about the price placed by the merchant on some groceries.

"I could buy that at home for the equivalent of 35 cents, and you ask a dollar for it," he complained.

"Why didn't you stay there and buy the stuff cheaply?" asked the merchant.

"I didn't have the 35 cents there" said the foreigner.

Often the fellow we call a liar is telling truths we don't want to hear.

We heard of a golfer who is doing so well now on the course that his children are allowed to watch him play.

A LOAD OF LADDERS

The driver of an automobile who was plainly out of his element in city traffic, attempted to turn his car around in the middle of the block and was sideswiped and upset by a hook-and-ladder fire truck. Striding over to the overturned car a traffic policeman poked his head through the windows and growled: "You'll get 10 years for this. Whatcha mean by blocking traffic like this?"

"Yet let him alone" said a shrill female voice from what was left of the back seat. "How did he know those wild driving painters were going to run into us?"

There is no such thing as an indispensible man. There are people who think they could get along without the Hints and Dints man.

In this country the great problem is to deal with the innocent and uninformed people. They do a lot of damage by their voting.

It would be a good thing if garbage cans could be made of rubber. In the right hands a garbage can can make a lot of noise.

Zula tells about the girl who was going on her first date and had been thoroughly coached by her mother what to do in certain eventualties. When she returned home the mother wanted to know how she had managed.

"Fine" she said, "the minute we were alone I threw my arms around his neck and let him do the worrying."

Mention of "town cows" in the paper, brings to mind the "Town cow" we used to milk twice a day, carrying the near-full pail an eighth of a mile and never thinking of bacteria.

Good Taste

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

R. S. B. writes: "I am very fond of children but one of my neighbors usually takes calling with her two of her youngsters who romp about my house playing with the bric-a-brac and books and making such a clatter that I can't possibly concentrate on the long rigmarole their mother has to tell me. I wish you would write a piece about such pests."

Answer: Those who do not like children are to be pitied but I agree with R. S. B. that she has just cause for complaint. I know well the type of this mother. Her ego has become so exalted that it embraces her offspring. Just as she is above criticism, so are they. After they have pounded your great-grandfather's snuffbox with your great-great-grandmother's candle-snuffers until the din has disturbed her flow of gossip, she may gently suggest that they make less noise. But just let you rescue your heirlooms from them and note what a black look you receive. These mothers calmly read their true confession magazines while their children run up and down the aisles of trains, tagging fellow passengers' arms as they pass. Similarly, they gambol about hotel lobbies or race and shout through the corridors without a word of correction from mamma who, if you tell her your nap is interrupted can recite references to new theories advising that children be henceforth allowed the liberties of "expression"

Other Readers' Questions Answered

Question: Only recently I have been allowed to attend the dances held at our high school. Frequently, boys ask me if they may take me to the various dances, but I can't find exact words of acceptance. I don't want to seem too glad and I don't want to seem sophisticated and aloof.—Arlene.

Answer: Don't be a poseur. Don't have a stereotyped line that sounds as if it had been rehearsed. Be your sweet, natural, unaffected self. Act your age! Remember that you are only a school girl and you are not expected to speel off smart quips like a movie star in a sophisticated comedy. One of the greatest charms of youth is freshness, vivaciousness and naivete. Don't spoil your charm by developing a sophisticated air and a "wise-cracking" line.

When a boy invites you to a dance answer: "Yes, Bob, I would be delighted to go," if you are really interested in going. If you do not care for him and would rather not go, decline politely, stating, "Oh, I'm so sorry, Bob, but I have other plans for that evening." Even when you turn down a boy's offer you must do it with the utmost courtesy.

A movie actress got divorce from her husband because he discussed financial affairs in front of their friends and stayed out until 4 and 5 o'clock in the morning without making explanations. When a man stays out that late at night he thinks he had better not explain to his wife.

"Fine," said the new policeman. "The hours are short the pay is good. I will get a good pension if I stay on 20 years and I get sick leave and vacations with pay. Period Of Prosperity Is In Sight
Preparedness Provides Employment
Necessity For Arming Unquestioned

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Dr. Isador Lubin, chief of the labor department's bureau of statistics and economic adviser to the national defense commission, is an outstanding personality among many high authorities who speak exceedingly well of the preparation Uncle Sam is busy with to equip the United States from the army's, the navy's and our aviation standpoints, to cope with any danger which may threaten our hemisphere.

Favorable commentators, like Dr. Lubin, concerning this American preparedness program, more than deprecate the idea that we're arming with a view to getting into any conflict. Emphatically to the contrary, they explain that it's imperative for us to be strong enough to scare any overseas scalawags from attacking us, thus involving us in hostilities.

In short, they say, we're arming for peace; not for war.

I don't believe that anybody but a very few ultra-pacifists questions the cogency of such reasoning. Most of us evidently agree that we need to be loaded for bear in order to keep today's ugly grizzlies afraid of us. Some little fault has been found with our recent legislation on the subject, but it's related to details; it hasn't been in principle.

Does It Mean Prosperity?

But Dr. Lubin et al don't stop at contending that our armament activties are necessary as a purely defensive proposition.

Their thesis is that our conscription, our warship building, our plane construction and our gun and ammunition manufacturing will sop up all our unemployment, set our industries a-humming and usher in a wonderful period of prosperity.

I can remember a time when even pro-armament spokesmen didn't argue so hopefully from the economic angle.

It was shortly before the last World war. I was a correspondent in London. It was obvious that a clash was imminent between Britain and Germany. Winston Churchill already was prominent in John Bull's government. He was clamorous for faster British warship building.

"I'm perfectly aware," he said in an interview I obtained, "that a warship hasn't a bit of economic value. But it's insurance. Insurance premiums are simply money out of pocket if your place doesn't burn down, but, if it does, the insurance money saves you from ruin. A battle craft is worthless as an investment, but it's invaluable as protection."

How It Works

It's like this:

I used to be an editor in a town where stick-ups were rampant. I had to get to work in the middle of the night. At that hour the highwaymen were all over everywhere From the point where I got off my street car to my office was about a block and a half, right where the thugs were thickest.

So I provided myself with a 45-calibre automatic. Getting off my car, I'd go into Tom Conway's saloon much patronized by the stick-up gentry. Calling for a drink, I'd lay my gun on the bar while I consumed my refreshment. After that I'd carry my shooting-iron in my hand the rest of the way. I never was molested and I thanked the gun for it, but I never considered that that gun paid me any actual dividends.

As To Armaments

It's similar with national armaments.

Countries may have to have 'em, but they're of no intrinsic economic worth. Tho toil that's devoted to building them is as much wasted as leaf-raking. At least that's what economists once said.

Dr. Lubin's theory is, though, that we'll get a wonderful period of prosperity out of our defensive program.

Doubtless we will get a boom, but we may get a mean economic reaction later.

The Willkie Campaign

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23

WITH six weeks of this Presidential campaign to go, it is interesting to note that the polls, to which many people adhere, clash with the actual voting tests in the States which heretofore have been a reliable guide as to the popular trend.

FROM the polls—and other things—the third-termers derive great satisfaction, and the New Deal managers exult over the prospect of four more years of the Roosevelt regime. On the other hand, the friends of Mr. Willkie are immensely cheered over the Wisconsin primary figures, which, together with those of Maine and California, indicate that the Republican tide which turned in 1938 still runs strongly in their direction.

PARTICULARLY is this true of the Wisconsin vote last Tuesday, in which not only were the third-term Democratic candidates overwhelmed by the anti-third-term Democrats but the Republicans showed an increase of 152,000 over their 1936 primary vote as compared to a Democratic decrease of 38,000. Of course, it is not safe to take either the polls or these vote comparisons too seriously. Many things may happen in six weeks. There is room for both good and bad luck. It isn't possible to foresee the "breaks," but it is possible to recognize that the raucous claims of the third-termers that the fight is "in the bag" and their heavy emphasis on the "Willkie slump" are part of the third-term propaganda to which no informed man subscribes.

MR. WILLIKIE'S friends do not believe he has slumped appreciatively at all. Before the end they think it will be convincingly demonstrated that he was right to keep his campaign down to fifteen miles an hour in August, step it up to thiry-five in September and wait until October before hitting top speed. Before the middle of next month, it is predicted, there will be no talk of a Willkie slump. The fact is, however, that Mr. Willkie has been handicapped by two things—one is the grousing of various sore headed Republican politicians, in and out of Congress, who were opposed to his nomination, but think he ought to take their advise now. An idea of this advice can be had from the fact that one Republican "leader" went all the way to Rushville to tell Mr. Willkie he had made a mistake in rejecting Father Coughlin's support. Mr. Willkie said he was going to continue making that kind of mistake and this "leader" went back to Washington to spread the report that Willkie was "slumping" because he wouldn't "consult" with anybody.

THE other Willkie handicap—which may not turn out to be a handicap—is his refusal—and he says he will keep on refusing—to demagogue in this fight. He not only insists on saying what he believes when he speaks but he refuses to let what he believes remain unsaid. Nor is he deterred from doing this by the fact that his opponent, Mr. Roosevelt, already has advocated the same thing in which he believes. The best evidence of this was the issue of conscription; another was the sending of the destroyers to England. On both these Mr. Willkie was advised by Republican politicians either to keep quiet or take the other side. He did neither. Conscription he flatly indorsed, although most Republicans in Congress voted against it. The destroyer deal he approved, though he criticized—and justly—the shocking method by which it was done.

IT does not hold water to say that the consent of Congress could not have been gotten. The consent of Congress speedily has been had to everything the President has asked in the name of defense—to the authorization of sixteen billion dollars, to sending the National Guard out of the country, to conscription, to many other things. For this destroyer proposal he would have had overwhelming journalistic and popular support—and he would have had Mr. Willkie's too. It was not necessary to set aside the Constitution, through the sleasiest opinion ever given by a rubber-stamp Attorney General, in order to do a thing that practically everybody approved, but which he himself had delayed for more than seven weeks.

TO approve the deal and criticize the method was in tune with Mr. Willkie's policy of saying what he believes. Actually, his course raises the very interesting question of whether a completely honest campaign for the Presidency can succeed in this country. Here is an able, earnest, magnetic man who writes his own speeches, speaks his own mind, makes his own mistakes. Neither his ideas nor his words are tailored by clever subordinates. The politicians of his own party are not

Kidnaped Boy Safe At Home In California

Utah mining operator, put away $100,000 in cash, the ransom the abductor demanded but never got, although it was ready and waiting for him.

From the time he was beaten to earth and captured until he was turned over to G-Men, the swarthy alien would not discuss his crime, but peace officers on the San Francisco Peninsula, of which Hillsborough is the show place, believe he sought a strange national vengeance in addition to money.

Families Threatened

Police Chief Claude M. Hirschey, of Hillsborough, pointed out that a number of prominent French families in the vicinity recently have been threatened.

"I think," he said, "that Muhlenbroich had a crazy idea he'd be doing something for Germany, as well as himself, by persecuting the French on the peninsula."

The G-Men, of course, wouldn't talk, so what they've ascertained from Muhlenbroich, if anything, was a secret.

The child was snatched from his nurse maid, Mary Foley, last Friday noon near his home, Miss Filey being knocked down and injured, a point which may prove costly when justice is dealt out to Muhlenbroich.

Nothing was heard from the kidnaper, although the De Tristan family followed instructions in a long, rambling ransom note which was thrown at the nurse, until the case broke yesterday with all the drama of a cinematic western thriller.

Football Player Hero

The hero of this story is Cecil Wetzel, 40, a former resident of Washington who played lots of football for Washington State college and then came down to California and built himself a small lumber mill in the towering high Sierra Range about 20 miles from Placerville.

That thriving little metropolis, incidentally, was a bad place for anyone in the kidnaping business, for in the gold--rush days it was known as Hangtown, and not without reason. Culprits were stretched to a tree upon slight provocation, and the law hurried Muhlenbroich through there enroute to the coast so as not to allow for any revival of frontier habits.

Wetzel was busy in his mill when truck driver Walter Liddicoat delivered a load of logs.

"Some wild guy up the road," said Liddicoat, "is whooping around in his car like he's lost."

Into Wetzel's mind immediately flashed stories he's read of the kidnaping and he called a truck driver of his own, Willis Wood, and set off up the steep, dusty road for a look.

Come Upon Car

A mile away Wetzel and Wood came upon a car which had stopped at an unposted crossroad.

Wetzel got down off the truck and the motorist, a tough looking-hombre with sharp eyes and several days growth of black beard, slid out of his car.

"Lost?" queried Wetzel gently.

"I gotta meet a man up by Silver Lake," grawled the stranger. "How do I get there?"

Wetzel sidled around and glanced into the car. And there was a small boy with yellow curly hair and wearing a red, white and blue play suit—the exact description of the kidnap victim.

"Where'd you get the child?" demanded Wetzel, turning to the motorist.

The latter at that instant was hauling a heavy pistol from a holster under his left arm. He pointed the weapon directly at Wetzel's midriff and started to say something.

Perfect Flying Tackle

But he didn't, for Wetzel took off in a perfect flying tackle, laying the stranger low, the gun skidding from his hand.

A couple of well directed punches to the jaw and the man underneath was pleading "you've got me; let me up."

But Wetzel knows something about gunmen, so he reached under the man's other arm and extracted another pistol. He then sat on his adversary and called for Wood to go to the mill and bring some rope.

With this he tied up the gunToter, piled him and the child into the truck and drove to River Pines, a resort town, where Mrs. Frank Breitenback, wife of the owner of the general store and a trained nurse, took over the boy who said his name was "Marc" and he lived "down San Mateo". San Mateo is adjacent to Hillsborough.

Mrs. Breitenback washed the child's hands and fed him ice cream, milk and dry toast. He enjoyed his repast but showed no indication of having suffered in any way.

Wetzel threw his prisoner into a cabin, gave him some water at his request, and called F. B. I. agents in San Francisco.

Pretty soon the government operatives showed up and took the boy and prisoner away, the former to his overjoyed parents, the latter for a grilling.

Count Gets Son

The count picked up his son in San Francisco.

"Hello, daddy," said the boy with a broad smile. He said he was all right and had been for a long ride.

His father then delivered him to the arms of his mother at their Hillsborough home. She pressed his head to her cheek and sobbed, "oh, darling; I never knew paradise would be here, but it is."

And pretty soon Marc was ready for bed, waving goodnight from his second-floor bedroom window to a cheering throng outside of the terrace.

The count said he'd never heard of Muhlenbroich.

Capt. Fritz Wiedemann, German consul-general at San Francisco, said the same thing.

Jumped Ship

But records disclosed that the alien jumped ship at Oakland in 1925, was caught and deported, only to come back into the United States again, under a German quota from Vancouver, B. C., four years ago.

Where he and the boy stayed the two days and nights they were missing has not been disclosed, but they probably spent part of the time on a river bank for little Marc told officers he remembered eating on a beach. The ocean is a long way from the mountains, but two rivers, the Sacramento and American, are nearby.

Prosecution plans awaited word from G-men.

District Attorney Gilbert Ferrell of San Mateo county, in which Hillsborough is located, said he would prosecute Muhlenbroich unless the government tries him in federal court.

If the German's tried under the California "little Lindbergh" law, he'll probably be subject only to life imprisonment for he did not harm his victim, and harm is a requisite to the death penalty.

There were some reports that confederates were sought in the crime, but all responsible investigators denied it. They said it was a one-person job.

able to divert him from expressing his convictions and he is making no specious promises no particular appeal to organized minorities or special classes.

SO far there has been no trace of insincerity or false pretense in his campaign, no tinge of demagoguery or humbug; no pious platitudes or meaningless generalities. He has made some mistakes, it is true, but he is nonetheless clearly "on the level" with the people, so far as he is concerned and so far as they are concerned. It is not possible yet to tell whether or not the voters as a whole will sense this kind of campaign and respond to it. But one thing is sure—they have not had this kind of campaign or this kind of candidate for a long time.

power should be used for the industrial development of the great Northwest and to provide domestic and rural users of electricity their requirements at the lowest possible rates."

Defends Action

Willkie's former utility connection is one on which he has expected to be attacked, but he has maintained that in the TVA case he did exactly what might be expected of the head of any company—get the most for his properties for the protection of investors in his company.

Willkie was given a warm reception in Portland. World War veterans enrolled in a veterans' Willkie - McNary organization greeted him at the railroad station and policed the route to his hotel.

After a brief rest in his rooms, the candidate was guest of honor at a reception given by the veterans and was introduced by Charles H. Martin, former Democratic governor of the state.

Willkie recalled that he had helped to found a Legion post in Akron, O., and had been its commander for two terms.

Following his morning speech here, Willkie was to board his campaign train again and head for Seattle, with stops at Centralia and Tacoma.

His short stop in Oregon pleased him as much as his lengthier stay in California where, he believes, he has made some converts.

Oregon, Democratic in 1932 and 1936, was Republican before that, and Willkie hopes to pull it back into the Republican column again this year.

New Building 'Being Planned

A new business building for the corner of East and North streets is under consideration, it was learned today.

Confirmation of reports that the southeast corner would be improved came from J. Clyde Gilfillan, building contractor, who last week purchased the tract from the Sol Brown estate for his sister, Margery Gilfillan.

"We're thinking of putting up a business building," Gilfillan said. "That's our tentative plan."

New Oldsmobile Series Placed On Display Here Today

Chevrolet-Keystone Company Showing New Models In Display Room

Chevrolet-Keystone Company announced today that the new 1941 Oldsmobile, with six new series, three sixes, and three eights, went on display in their display rooms at 210 West Washington street today.

The new 1941 Oldsmobile presents a wider variety of models than ever offered in the 43-year history of the company, it is stated, there being a six and an eight cylinder Oldsmobile in each of the three price fields which the company has covered in recent seasons.

An exclusive feature with Oldsmobile, which is attracting the attention of motorists this year is the Hydra-Matic Drive, which eliminates clutch, clutch pedal, and shifts gears automatically, which is optional at a reasonable extra cost on all models.

Oldsmobile also features increased room, greater engine power, striking new body designs, and scores of other detailed improvements which bear witness to the splendid progress of Oldsmobile in keeping abreast of the times in the automobile world.

Production facilities have been stepped up by Oldsmobile to meet the demand for Hydra-Matic drive, output on which had to be limited in the year just closing, but which will be available to meet any demand during the coming year.

Concealed running board, and an entirely new fender design, which blends into the body like the folded wings of a bird, gives Oldsmobile for 1941 a striking appearance.

PRESENTS DO THE TRICK

DOVER, Del.—Hasty marriages by parolees from the Girls Industrial School at Claymont have decreased since wedding presents were offered brides who first obtained permission from the institution. This was revealed in the annual report by Mrs. Sarah E. D. Sturges, superintendent. She added that only five girls were returned for marrying without the school's approval last year.

Legion Session Opens In Boston

Commander's Report Urges That United States Remain At Peace

(International News Service)

BOSTON, Sept. 23.—The American Legion convened in annual convention in the "birthplace of Americanis" today with initial sessions highlighted by declarations that subversive forces threaten but cannot destroy this nation's democracy, that American industry needs no conscription to aid national defense, and the "spiritual resources" fostered by the Legion are urgent factors in continued peace for the United States.

National Commander Raymond J. Kelly gavelled the convention into session and presented his annual report, which urged that the United States keep at peace by being strong and well armed. He called for a state and federal drive, aided by the Legion, to bulwark "internal and anti-subversive defenses" and pledged the Legion's aid with this declaration:

"In my opinion there is no more important problem for this convention and for the National Legion administration which is to follow, than the completion of long range plans for utilization of the Legion personnel by the nation to meet any conceivable national emergencies."

The only business firms that won't cooperate in defense are the ones controlled by Germany, and draft isn't the right word for them.

U. S. Census 131,409,881; Gain Smallest Since 1790

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The 1940 population of the United States is 131,409,881, the Census Bureau announces.

The total for the 16th decennial census is an increase of 8,634,835 over the 1930 population. This is a gain of only 7 per cent for the decade, compared with 16.1 registered between 1920 and 1930.

Growth of the nation was more than 50 per cent slower in the last 10 years than in any previous decade since the first census in 1790. The declining birth rate and virtual cessation of foreign immigration were held accountable and census experts concluded, therefore, that the United States has "gotten its growth", and may be expected to show a declining rate of population increase in the future.

In numbers, California increased her citizenry more than any other state, adding 1,196,437 persons to her population, compared with 791,556 gained by New York, second in the quantitative list. Seven other states—Texas, Florida, Michigan, North Carolina, Tennessee, Pennsylvania and Louisiana—scored increases exceeding 250,000 each.

In rate of growth, the District of Columbia, home of the expanding Federal government, grew faster than any of the 48 states.

Florida was the fastest-growing state, with an increase of 27.3 per cent. Followed by New Mexico, 24.9, and California, 21.1. For the first time in the nation's history, six states lost population.

With Vermont, they were Kansas, Nebraska, North Dakota, Oklahoma and South Dakota in the great plains, constituting a tier of agriculturally "starved" states in the dust bowl reaching from Canada to Texas.

The top 10 states, in order, are: New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio, California, Texas, Michigan, Massachusetts, New Jersey and Missouri. Nevada is still in last place with 110,014, but that is a 20.8 per cent increase over 1930.

British Women Aid Battle Against Nazi Germany

By ROBERT G. NIXON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Sept. 23.—From members of the royal family to charwomen from London's most humble sections, British women today are standing shoulder to shoulder with men in the nation's gigantic war effort against Nazi Germany.

The princess royal, the duchesses of Gloucester and Kent, a daughter of Prime Minister Winston Churchill, Novelist Mary Borden...these are but a few of the famous women engaged in war work.

For in England this is a women's war as well as a conflict for men, now more than ever before since all England is the war zone and London the chief battle ground. Germany's sky raiders have brought women as well as men into the front line.

It is estimated that more than 2,000,000 women are doing war work in munitions plants, airplane factories, the Red Cross organization and in numerous other special services too numerous to enumerate.

They are doing heroic work during air raid alarms as wardens, volunteer fire fighters, ambulance drivers and nurses.

In this "all-out" battle to save England, titled women who once in peace-time attended a constant round of glittering social functions, now work and rub elbows with their "sisters" from Cheapside and Bermondsey.

The Duchess of Kent, formerly Princess Marina of Greece, famous for her beauty and a leading light of Mayfair since she married King George's younger brother, is in the women's royal naval service, as is Mrs. Duncan Sandys, daughter of Prime Minister Churchill.

Lady Reading, a daughter of the late Lord Melchett, is leader of 75,000 members of the Women's Volunteer Service.

Lady Juliet Duff, niece of the Earl of Lonsdale and a close friend of Queen Mother Mary, is running a canteen in Wiltshire while Mrs. Evan Wallace, a noted social figure, and Lady Milbanke, a leader in London's pre-war gay "cafe set", are heading a maternity home established in the Wallace residence.

Mary Gordon Finlayson, daughter of Gen. Sir Robert Gordon Finlayson, is serving as a telephone operator in a London hospital.

Mary Borden, famous novelist whose pen—sometimes dipped in vitriol—has written of conflicts between men and women and on occasion pricked and prodded American multi-millionaires, now is a wartime ambulance driver.

Four In Ambridge Face Conspiracy Charges In Court

(International News Service)

BEAVER, Pa., Sept. 23.—Four Ambridge men were to stand trial in Beaver county court today on charges of conspiracy and violation of the state election laws in connection with the solicitation of signatures on Communist party election petitions last spring.

The men—George Maich, 48; John Larrick, 35; Josiah Potts, 40, and Sam Reed—were indicted by the grand jury recently on the conspiracy and violation charges, and in addition, Maich also was indicted on a perjury count. It was alleged that an oath before a notary as to the authenticity of the signatures on the petition.

Maich, Larrick and Potts were taken into cusotdy of Beaver county detectives after a rapid-fire investigation of persons whose names appeared on the petitions filed with the bureau of elections in Harrisburg.

Reed could not be located at the time, but after he had been indicted and a district attorney's bill lodged against him, he appeared and posted bond for trial.

Sign-Removal Campaign Opens

Seek Removal Of Billboards Beside Highways Of Pennsylvania

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 23—Pennsylvania's voluntary sign-removal campaign was under-way today with the distinction of two "test areas" approximately 160-miles-long on the scenic highways of the state.

At a conference between Secretary of Commerce Richard P. Brown and representatives of outdoor advertising agencies decided that two areas, divided into four sections shall be the proving ground for the campaign to eliminate billboards beside state roads.

The test areas include two sections 80 miles long on the Lincoln highway between Gettysburg and Chambersburg, and the Allegheny Mountain area between Chambersburg and Greensburg.

Along the William Penn highway the areas will be approximately the same length through the Allegheny Mountains between Blairsville and Lewistown and along the Juniata river between Lewistown and Amity Hall.

"Yes, sir, the slower-burning cigarette is aces with me. I like all those extras in Camels, including the extra smoking"

STRATOSPHERE PIONEER "TOMMY" TOMLINSON, VICE-PRESIDENT and CHIEF ENGINEER of TWA

He outflew the weather for Extra Speed

● In this "flying test tube," above, "Tommy" Tomlinson pioneered the newest wonder of modern air travel—the Stratoliner.

Skill, vision, perseverance...this veteran flyer has them all—in extra measure. Mildness, coolness, flavor—the qualities of a fine cigarette—he gets them all in his smoking, with an extra measure of each. He smokes Camels. "No matter how much I smoke," he says, "I always get a fresh thrill out of a slow-burning Camel. That extra flavor is always welcome."

He turned to Camels for Extra Mildness

● Twenty years—7,000 hours of flying—more hours above 30,000 feet than any other flyer. 19 national records for speed and endurance. That's the flying log of "Tommy" Tomlinson (above). His smoking log would read: "I wanted more mildness in my cigarette. I changed to Camels and got extra mildness with a grand flavor."

The way your cigarette burns does make a difference. Slower-burning Camels give you the natural mildness and coolness of costlier tobaccos plus the freedom from excess heat and irritating qualities of too-fast burning. Before you take it for granted you're getting all the pleasure there is to be had, try Camels. Get the extras—including extra smoking (see right).

Smokers: SAVE THE COST OF THE STATE CIGARETTE TAX

Smokers who live in communities where certain state cigarette taxes are in effect can save the cost of the tax—and, in some instances, more—through smoking Camels. (See panel at right.) When you are a Camel smoker, you get this unique economy—and all the extra enjoyment of cooler, milder smoking—the fragrance and delicate taste of finer, more costly tobaccos.

EXTRA MILDNESS EXTRA COOLNESS EXTRA FLAVOR

● In recent laboratory tests, Camels burned 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them. That means, on the average, a smoking plus equal to

Sailors Head West, Wait New Assignment

Pair Recently Discharged Are Re-enlisting; Visited Home Here

Two sailors, Etson B. Jeffress, 25, brother-in-law of Ralph W. Rodgers of 6 West Euclid avenue, this city, and his buddy, Al Schreier, age 24, of Chicago, Ill., have left here following a weeks visit at the Rodgers residence, for Bunceton, Missouri, where they will await further instructions, as to where they will be sent, by the government.

Jeffress and Schreier, who were with the U. S. Fleet in the Far East trouble zone, related some interesting tales of their impressions of the Orient, and the war conditions in general, as they see it. Both young men received honorable discharges recently at Norfolk, Va., after a four year enlistment service. Jeffress, a seaman, served aboard the U. S. S. Blackhawk, a destroyer, while Schreier was a fireman aboard the gunboat, U. S. S. Tulsa.

The young men just completed a two and a half year tour of duty in China, and assert that "Japan respects Uncle Sam's Navy in the Orient, and that the average Filipino wants America's protection, for they are suspicious of the Japs."

Jeffress and Schreier plan to reenlist in the Navy again, to further serve Uncle Sam "if and when he needs us."

GIRLS OF THE NEWS BREAKFAST AT PARK

Sunday morning, the girl employees of The News Company, enjoyed another of their informal get-togethers, when the business office force, planned and took charge of a breakfast party, held in the grove of Cascade Park.

The occasion was delightfully informal, and at 10 o'clock, a most appetizing breakfast menu was served at the sheltered tables. New Road Leads Many Tourists To Pymatuning Lake

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 23.—Ducks still walk on the backs of fish at Pymatuning Lake, in Crawford County, the State Department of Commerce reports.

And the construction of 4.81 miles of paved highway on a road that was dusty in summer and almost impassable in the spring has increased travel to this lake which is rapidly becoming a favorite with Pennsylvanians and tourists.

The new road, Route 285, passes through Espyville and provides a shorter route between the Ohio State Line and Conneaut Lake. At Pymatuning is a causeway across the lake, the highway connecting Andover, Ohio (Route 6) with Espyville. From Route 6 (Roosevelt highway) on the Pennsylvania side motorists find a most interesting trip from Andover to Espyville to Linesville on Route 6 traveling east.

Pymatuning Lake, or reservoir, covers nearly 15,000 acres, about 10,000 of which are in Pennsylvania tnd the remainder in Ohio. The shore line approximates 70 miles. Fishing and boating, with the exception of motor boats, are permitted on the lake. More than 1,500,000 trees have been planted on land adjoining the lake. One of the greatest wild waterfowl sanctuaries in America is located here and a waterfowl museum has been erected by the Pennsylvania State Game Commission and is open to visitors.

The newly-constructed highway is used extensively by tourists who visit Pymatuning Lake and especially the spillway. It is at this point that tourists feed bread to the countless thousands of fish who come to the surface where they battle with the wild ducks for the bread tossed to them. Frequently the battle attracts so many fish and ducks that the surface of the water is churned up and the ducks actually waddle over the mass of struggling fish to get their share of the feast.

Vendors on the site often sell as many as a thousand loaves of bread to tourists who toss the bread to the hungry fish and ducks and enjoy their antics.

Several excellent scenes of this unusual sight appear in the new 16mm colored sound motion picture "Travelcade" now being shown by the Pennsylvania Department of Commerce.

Pennsylvania Second State In Population

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
(Special Washington Correspondent New Castle News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 23.—Pennsylvania continues to rank as second largest state under the 1940 census count, according to preliminary figures released today by the Census Bureau.

The Keystone State's population increased from 9,631,350 in 1940 to 9,891,709 in 1940. New York continues to rank as largest state, with an increase from 12,588,066 in 1930 to 13,379,622 in 1940. Ohio comes fourth with a population of 6,889,623.

During the decade, however, Pennsylvania lagged behind most states and the country at large in the rate of population growth. Pennsylvania's population gained only 2.7 per cent. This contrasted with a national increase of 6.9 per cent.

LOANS WITHOUT ENDORSERS

You can borrow $100 if you can pay back $6.97 a month—See table for other loan plans—No credit questions asked of friends or relatives—Quick, friendly service.

YOU can get a personal loan—without red tape or delay—if you can repay in small monthly installments. All you do to apply for a loan at Household is to acquaint us with your problem. You need no bankable security—no endorsers or guarantors.

You may repay your loan on any of the schedules shown in the table below. Thus you may choose the payment plan which best fits your own needs and income.

Payments to fit your purse

Suppose that you need a $100 loan. You find this amount in the first column of the table. Then read across picking out the monthly payment which you wish to make. You will see, for instance, that monthly installments of $9.75 each will repay a $100 loan in full in twelve months. Or, if you wish smaller payments, as little as $6.97 a month for eighteen months will also repay a $100 loan.

You will note that the sooner you repay the less your loan costs. Four monthly installments of $26.58 each, or a total of only $106.32, for instance, will repay a $100 loan in full.

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

(Copyright, 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

RESPONSIBILITY IN CHILDREN

Of some persons we say, "They are mature". Of others, we say, "They haven't grown up." We are prone to regard as mature any one who acts his age, acts responsible and dependable.

Persons become mature by having to do things for themselves as well as others. So sometimes persons do not mature because they aren't permitted to do things for themselves. Thus if a boy of eight continues to be dressed every day by his mother, he is being retarded in maturing.

So many times I have seen boys and girls, ready to shoulder more responsibility — responsibility that would make them grow up mentally as well as physically, but their parents wouldn't let them. Such children often become rebels. They resent being babied, and they struggle for their freedom. These boys and girls—yes, often young men and women—think they are old enough to know when to go to bed without being told. They think they are old enough to go out without asking permission every time; they think it is humiliating to have to account for every cent of money they spend. And they are right. If they didn't have such feelings, they wouldn't be normal.

There is no better way of training a child than by teaching it the proper use and values of money. This should be begun quite early, so that by the time adolescence is reached, he has definite ideas on the earning, saving and giving of money.

When the child gets to the point where he knows what money is for and how it should be spent, he should be put on a definite spending allowance, no matter if it is only a small one.

Then, just as soon as the child is old enough to be of some use, he should be given the opportunity to find out for himself, just how much work it takes to earn a dime, or a quarter. He quickly learns there is a lot of difference between the money that is given him and that which he earns. And he spends it accordingly.

You find that a youth, as he grows older, resents what he considers unnecessary control over all his activities by his parents. Of course, this resentment is often unjustified, but again I have known many parents who could have accomplished a great deal more toward the control of the child if they had gone about it in such a way as to develop a sense of responsibility in him.

Unfortunately, it sometimes happens that a young person denied a natural development of its responsibility will as a result develop a dislike and even a hatred of a parent. When this happens the harmony of family life is broken by bitter quarrels, with the young person struggling for the right of independent thought and action, the parent attempting to impose his views on youth.

This desire for independence, for greater control over activities and thoughts, is more normal than the attitude of the child who clings to the parent and refuses to take any step toward independence.

NEWS BRIEFS IN WARD DISTRICT

But a bare skeleton of the building at the old car works, Mahoning avenue, now remains. Workmen are busy dismantling this structure, preparatory to moving it to Pulaski where it will house a new industry.

Persons residing along East Cherry street should take advantage of the fact that they may use the street after working hours each day and get their winter supply of coal in. After the workmen begin to place stone on the street, it will undoubtedly be closed to all traffic.

Good progress is being made in the new house being constructed along North Liberty street near the intersection of Mahoning avenue. Work was started on this building but a few weeks ago.

Task of painting the Willow Grove bridge on the Wampum road has been completed.

Glass Company To Reduce Force

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 23.—The Pittsburgh Plate Glass company announced today that it was discontinuing production of plate glass at its Creighton plant. Half of the 2,000 employes on the payroll were told to try and find other jobs.

The company said actual manufacture of plate glass would stop on Sept. 30, although it would continue to make automobile safety glass there. About 1,000 men will be retained.

A spokesman said:

"The plant has been up and down for a number of years. It has been primarily kept going through making of automobile glass, but now the men are being told to try and find other jobs, rather than wait for the plant to resume again, because the outlook it not bright."

Perkins says there are nine million more employed than when she started, not counting reliefers. All it takes is faithful effort and a war scare.

Regulations For Conscription Are Being Completed

Long Conference Held By Board

Approval By President Will Make Regulations Law Of Nation

FORMAL APPROVAL EXPECTED TODAY

By JACK VINCENT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—President Roosevelt is scheduled today to sign the long-delayed executive order setting up the national draft system, and possibly to nominate the director of the law that requires 16,500,000 men to register for compulsory military service on Oct. 16.

The stage for presidential action was set over the week-end when members of the joint army and navy selective service committee (draft board) spent long hours completing work on the first two volumes of regulations for conscription.

Will Become Law

These regulations will become law with the president's executive order. The first volume sets up rules for organization and operation of the draft system, and the second volume will fill the regulations for registration. Four other volumes of rules will be issued at a later date.

Upon signing of the executive order, the joint army and navy selective service committee will cease to be a military group and become a civilian agency to be known officially as the selective service system, and unofficially as the national draft board.

Its powers and functions, and methods of operation, have been pretty well defined by a special six-man advisory committee announced by President Roosevelt at Hyde Park Saturday night. The advisory committee is composed of Frederick Osborn of New York, Col. William H. Draper, Jr., of New York, Floyd Reeves of Chicago, Professor Joseph P. Harris of Evanston, Ill., Channing W. Tobias of New York and Wayne Coy of Delphia, Ind.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Civilized man is suffering from hyperkineticism.

That sounds bad—and is bad.

It is an overactivity of mental and emotional mechanisms.

Primitive man had no such problem to worry about.

Civilization has stepped up the pace of life.

This has created a new set of physical complications.

Diseases of the heart and arteries are included.

Also diabestes and peptic ulsers.

Hyperthyroidism and high blood pressure are other disorders.

Added to these are many mental and nervous diseases.

Treatment of such diseases is one of prevention.

Man should learn his limitations, then avoid hyperkineticism.

Reciprocal Trade Treaty Policies Are Assailed

(International News Service)

AURORA, Ill., Sept. 23.—In the first major address of his campaign for the vice presidency, Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon on Saturday afternoon attacked the administration's reciprocal trade agreement policy and features of the agricultural adjustment program.

"The next administration will not be bound by the free trade dogma of Secretary of State (Cordell) Hull" McNary declared. "The reciprocal trade treaties, which are not reciprocal, do not promote trade and are not properly treaties, not being subject to ratification by the senate."

Senator McNary approved of payment of a billion dollars from the treasury this year to farmers, under the soil conservation program, declaring it was "richly earned in service to society," and "still falls short by an equal sum of the farmer's just due." He added, however:

"An administration worth its salt will strive for parity prices—not parity payments. It will seek to make our surpluses a blessing and not a curse. It will seek to blot out rural poverty and void future enforced shameful large scale migrations."

The Republican candidate accused his opponent, Henry A. Wallace, the Democratic candidate for vice president, of "seeking to transfer his campaign from the farm belt to Europe" by dwelling on the international crisis. He declared that Wallace's charge that the Republican party is the "party of appeasement" was "an irresponsible generalization."

McNary emphasized, however, that the second World war "disturbs our economy" and "impels us all to extraordinary effort and huge expenditures for defense."

MISSING ELEMENT 93 DISCOVERED BY COAST SCIENTISTS

(International News Service)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 23.—The achievement for which the whole world of science has been waiting — the discovery of missing element number 93—has been made by University of California scientists.

Like a cook's recipe for a cake, the recipe for all creation has consisted of 92 known elements—basic building blocks of the universe.

The new element, a new kind of atom which together with other atomic structures, makes up the composition of all matter whether it be water, air, iron or salt.

So new is this element that no name has been given it, although it could be named after the university's cyclotron which made possible its discovery.

Report Japanese Advance Through French Indo-China

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 23.—A Reuters (British) dispatch from Tokyo said today that Japanese army and navy units have commenced a peaceful advance through French Indo-China, French far eastern colony.

The Japanese units, said this report, began advancing through Indo-China in a northerly direction as the result of negotiations between Japanese French authorities at Hanoi during the past few weeks.

According to Reuters, it was reported that some disputes arose when the Japanese forces crossed the Indo-Chinese border, but these were believed to have been settled promptly.

From Shanghai Reuters reported that Japan had demanded passage of troops through Indo-China to the Yunnan province frontier in China as well as establishment of Japanese naval and air bases in Indo-China.

But doesn't it hurt a girl's pride when she suspects that she is merely the alternative to a year of military training?

AIRPLANES PROVE VALUABLE AID IN FOREST SERVICE

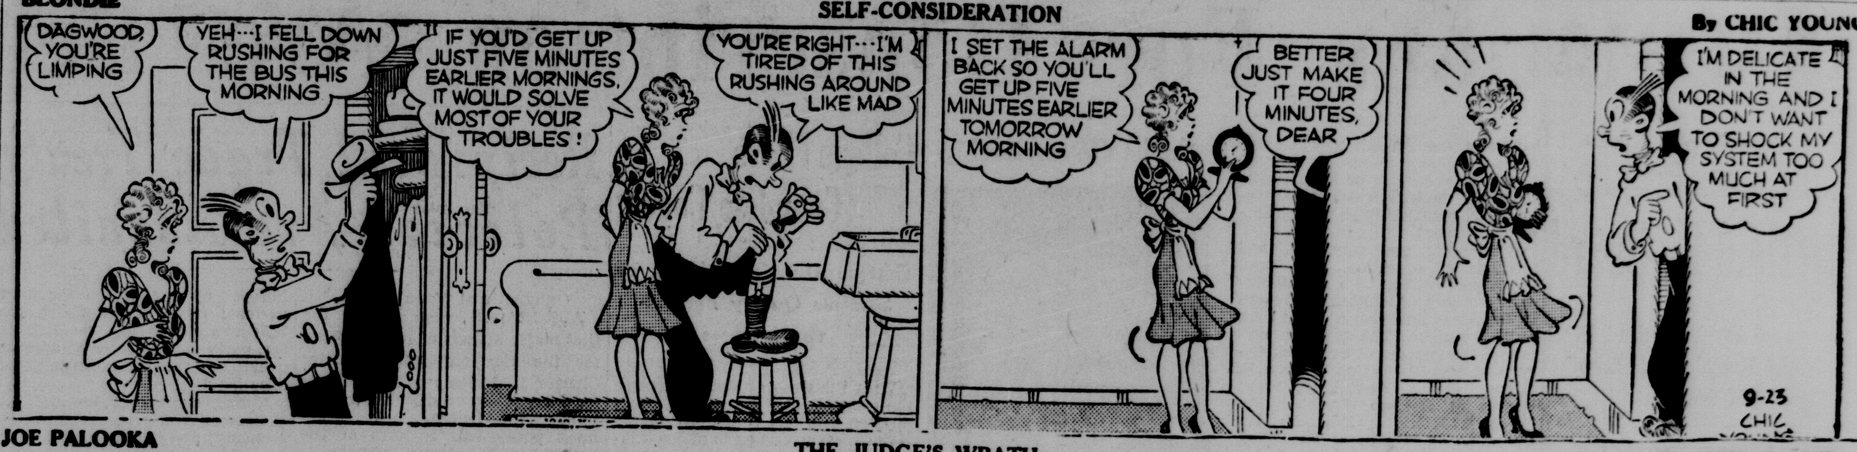

(International News Service)

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 23 — Shakespeare and his "moving" Birnam woods was a comparative piker to the workers of the United States forest service who now can boast forests that fly.

Inspired with the seasons obtained in flying supplies to forest fire fighters, foresters have conducted tests in which bales of seedlings are dropped with and without parachutes in remote areas where forest service workers pick them up and plant them in burned over areas.

Aterial transportation of young trees, foresters point out, will save cost of opening truck routes into the wild reaches of national forests.

BRITISH DIVE BOMBERS SINK GERMAN SUPPLY SHIP

Sinking of a German supply ship off the Norwegian coast by British dive bombers is portrayed in the two pictures above, which were passed by the British censor. Predicts Reds Will Win World's Series

Bill Brandt, Retired Sports Writer, Picks Cincinnati Over American League Team

Likes Reds Pitching Staff Headed By Bucky Walters And Paul Derringer

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—As keeper of statistics and author of literature in behalf of the National League, Bill Brandt, a reformed baseball writer, stands as that circuit's permanent keynoter, and in his annual address made for our especial benefit today he attempts to show exactly why there is an excellent chance that the American League will lose in the world series. We found him exuberant this time, without that look of despair which National Leaguers have been unable to conceal prior to other world series of the last few years.

The National Leaguers are riding high this time, seemingly certain that they have the winner in the Cincinnati Reds.

Reds Improved

Assuming that the American League will establish its champion before winter sets in and freezes the Reds out of the chance to make good where they failed last year, National Leaguers see the current Reds as a vast improvement over the team that dropped four straight to the New York Yankees in 1939. Moreover, they don't think the American League pennant-winner will be nearly as good as those Yankees were.

"There are many things to be considered from a standpoint of cold facts, without bias or undue enthusiasm," Brandt explained. "In the first place, the Reds' pitching will be as good as it was last year, when they should have won two games. Their outfield will be much stronger, and, for the first time in nine years, the National League club will go into the world series rested and relaxed after having won the pennant well before the finish of the race."

Have Pitching Edge

He thinks in behalf of the National League that the Reds will have a big edge in pitching over Detroit or Cleveland.

"Without wishing to disparage either Buck Newsom, of the Tigers, or Bob Feller, of the Indians, I wish to point out what I consider an important fact," he persisted. "Neither American League club has two pitchers the equal of Paul Derringer and Bucky Walters, and neither of them has three pitchers on a par with Derringer, Walters and Junior Thompson. And, of course, in Joe Beggs the Reds have the outstanding relief pitcher of the year.

Another big difference last season between the Yankees and the Reds was in the outfield.

Good Outfield

"It will be different this time," as Brandt presents the situation for the Nationals. "Compare last year's outfield of Berger, Craft and Goodman with the combinations McKechnie can offer this year. He can start with, say, Ripple or Arnovich, Mike McCormick and Goodman, or with McCormick, Craft and Goodman if he wants his best defense out there. He has a choice this time of two picket lines, or combinations thereof and that will make a difference."

And what was that about the Reds having won their Pennant early and being able to coast in now?

"It's this way," Brandt said. "Our league always has been noted for its stretch drive, that big September push, and the clubs have been worn to a frazzle going into the world series. You can't tell me that hasn't had something to do with the Yankees winning four in a row. The Yankees have always coasted through the last week or two.

"All that is reversed this time. You will see the result of it in the world series, with a National League victory virtually assured."

Wabash Bears Defeat Koppel In Opening Game

Battle At Koppel Field Sunday Goes To Bears 7 To 0, Hammock Scores

The Wabash Bears of Mahoningtown, local semi-pro champs last year began their 1940 grid season Sunday at Koppel by winning a hard-fought battle 7 to 0 over the Mud Divers. Hammock did the scoring for the Wabashers in the final period. A crowd of more than 2,000 saw the game.

The Bears were impressive the entire game, but missed a few chances to score by lacking inches for first downs. The Bears, however, had 10 first downs to five for their opponents.

Hammock Tallies

It was not until the fourth and final period that the Bears could break the deadlock and Hammock turned right end from his own five and raced over for the winning touchdown. The conversion was made by Rocco Tomalello. Best in the Bears backfield was Hammock, Nocera and the fine blocking of D'Antonio. Albert "Powerhouse" Adamo at quarter played a fine game, as did Piccirillo and Fava on the line.

President Willie Domenick of the Bears announced that next Sunday the Bears will play at New Kensington. The Bears will workout every night this week on the E. & A. Field at 5 o'clock, it was announced.

Sylvan Heights Has League Day

Awards Presented To Moose Team, Winner Of League Championship

MANY GOLFING EVENTS LISTED

Close of the 1940 Sylvan Heights golf league season was observed with a field day program for league members at the Sylvan Heights course, Sunday afternoon, followed by a chicken dinner at 6:30 o'clock in the evening, when the awards were presented to the New Castle Moose team, winner of the league championship, and to the various winners of the day's events.

Frank Summers, chairman of the league's entertainment committee, presided as toastmaster. In the absence of Mayor Charles B. Mayne, who is out of the city, Councilman James L. Fink, made the main address at the dinner, while Joseph Smith, of Ellwood City, also spoke.

The league was honored by the presence of Joe Platt of Pittsburgh, U. S. G. A. chairman for Western Pennsylvania. Platt stated that in his travels throughout his territory, he found few municipal courses, which could compare with the New Castle course, and congratulated the league officers, on the successful season which they have enjoyed.

W. T. Saul announced that arrangements are under way to bring together Frank Mogey, winner of the city championship, and Bill Long, winner of the Sylvan Heights title, in a special match next Sunday.

The Fenton team, while it broke no records during the season, had the honor of having the oldest and youngest members of the league on its roster, W. T. Saul, who is 65, being the oldest, and Jackie Synder, who is 15, being the youngest. They were presented with suitable awards.

Marty Segedi, of the Ellwood City Saxon team, had low gross score of 71 for the day, and Fred Lombardo won the long driving contest, while Marty Segedi was second. Tobe Fenati, outdrove all contestants with a mighty blast which carried around 300 yards, but he was just outside the boundary markers.

Fenati, former New Castle high grid star, who is studying music in Ne wYork City, gave several fine musical numbers which were enjoyed by the crowd. He left later in the evening for New York, where he will continue his studies during the winter.

Among the guests of the league were: Councilman James L. Fink, Dr. J. L. Reed, member of the golf commission, Herbert S. Kirk, Ray Wallace, James M. Smith, Jr., vice president and assistant treasurer of the Shenango Pottery, and sponsor of the first half winners, who have been a strong contender for championship honors every year since entering the league. They won the league title last year.

Officers of the league, during the past year, were: President, Geno Veri; vice president, Martin Kovach; and secretary and treasurer, Lee Starr.

Titans Open Season; Defeat Edinboro 26-0

(Special To The News)

EDINBORO, Sept. 23.—As a present to Head Coach Grover C. Washabough on his 50th birthday, the Westminster Titans opened their 1940 season by swamping the Edinboro beachers, 26-0, on the Red Raiders' home field Saturday. On paper the Titans were the underdog team, with only five lettermen to 12 for Edinboro.

Scoring once in each period, the reputedly green Titan eleven showed surprising speed and power in their first encounter of the season.

Newton Scores

Taking the opening kick-off on their own 35-yard line, the Blue and White gridders began a sustained drive that ended when Dick Newton, sophomore fullback, smashed over for a touchdown from the 5-yard line.

Aided by exceptionally poor kicking by Edinboro, and the smashing, driving play of the Titan line, Joe Demoise, versatile freshman back, raced around his own right end for a 35-yard skirt up the sidelines to chalk up the second score midway in the second period.

Outstanding Play

Probably the outstanding play of the game came in the third quarter, when Joe Demoise, standing on the midfield stripe, threw a long pass to Ted Ossoff, Titan right end, who lateraled to Wilson, frosh center, who scored standing up from the 25-yard line. Newton made his first extra point with a placement kick.

In the last quarter, when both teams were showing signs of weariness from too-hot-weather-for-football, Tony Valicenti, senior halfback, raced off his own left tackle 40 yards to put the ball on the 10-yard line. Following two line plunges, Newton scored his second touchdown of the afternoon and then kicked the extra point.

Brothers Battle

As a paradoxical sidelight on the game there was a brother-against-brother battle in session throughout the game, as Pete Evanoff, rugged Titan halfback from Erie, who played the best all-around game on the field, was blocking and running against his kid brother, one of the stalwarts of the Edinboro backfield.

The Edinboro team was completely outclassed throughout the afternoon, as the Titans scored 16 first downs to Edinboros two.

Numerous Penalties

Both teams were penalized numerous times for offsides because of over-anxious linemen. The Titans scored a touchdown in the third period, but were called back because of offside.

Line-ups:

Westminster		Edinboro
Washabaugh	L. E.	Walbridge
Harris	L. T.	Kaufman
Lane	L. G.	Abrams (C)
Wilson	C.	Rockwell
Horton	R. G.	Dilley

Ossoff	R. E.	Blasdell
Riggle	Q.	Intrieri
Demoise	R. H.	Dunfee
Evanoff (C)	L. H.	Shollenberger
Newton	F.	Tate

Score by quarters:

Westminster	6	6	7	7	—26
Edinboro	0	0	0	0	— 0

Touchdowns—Newton 2, Joe Demoise, Rigles. Point after touchdown — Newton (placekick). Referee—Abele. Umpire—Hart. Linesman—Fitting. Time of periods—15 minutes.

Furr-Armstrong Battle Tonight

Once Washed Up Fighter Will Tangle With Hammering Fists Of Belting Henry

By BILL ZIMMERMAN
International News Service Sports Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—A 30-year-old Virginian who once trained to be a jockey because he was so frail climaxes 10 years of professional fighting tonight when he faces the hammering fists of Welterweight Champion Henry Armstrong.

Phil Furr joined the army when he was 20, after three years of jockey training, and began his boxing career when he was sent to Panama, where his outfit was "tough and it was fight or else". The famous army boxing instructor, Sgt. Bill Dyer, took Furr in hand and developed him into the champion of Panama.

Has Many Fights

Since then, Phil has been in the ring so much he looks on the squared circle as home. He has had over 160 fights—an average of about 16 a year—which is quite a bit of scrapping.

The Virginian has met about everything in his class from bottom to the top, including Harry Dublinsky, Barner Ross and Ceferino Garcia, but has never been classed higher than "the champion of the District of Columbia.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Mike Raffa and Johnny Buff, featherweights, are scheduled to box 10 rounds tonight at Hickey Park, Millvale. In another 10-rounder, Jimmy Bivins will box Larry Kellum.

Pat Comiskey Hard Puncher

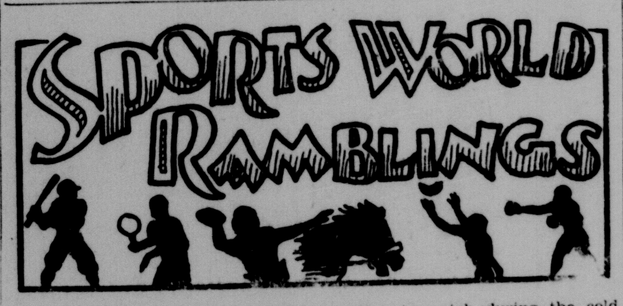

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 23—Patrick Edward Comiskey, New Jersey's young heavyweight, who meets Max Baer, the California clown, in a 15-round bout next Thursday night at Jersey City, "can hit harder than Jack Dempsey ever could and probably will knock Baer out."

This surprising pair of statements same Saturday from Jack Kearns, Dempsey's old manager, who is promoting the fight, with Dempsey as the probable referee.

"As a promoter," Kearns said, "I'm strictly neutral, but this Comiskey is the greatest prospect I ever saw. He's a real killer like Dempsey and he suddenly has learned how to handle himself."

"You can go out and bet that he has no fear of Baer and that he will go after the former champion right from the first bell."

Sports trivia—What does a feller have to do to get recognition? The manager of the year in baseball is [illegible] hear his name linked with the story-book like rise of his Detroit Tigers? Faced with a lot of broken down players, Baker borrowed needle and thread and went to work. Today, a team picked to finish fifth or sixth is hot after the trail of the American League flag. . . .

What's to come out of the turbulent condition in Cleveland? If any one will profit, Vitt seems to be occupying that spot. The Indians have built themselves into one of the most disliked clubs in the history of the game. While some point at Vitt, the majority seems to be on the manager's side. At the end of the season, Vitt will grab the remainder of his $15,000 salary and an attendance bonus and probably tie up with another club. . . .

But how about team? Those players will be hard to handle, especially when they know that they will not be reprimanded for their actions. Supposing the Injuns don't win the pennant? That's another thing for the moguls to consider. Joe Customer is a funny fellow in Cleveland. He wants a championship team or else. The outcome of this strange situation will be interesting to watch during the cold wintry nights. . . .

At last! They've figured out a way to lure customers to watch the St. Louis Browns in action. Night baseball did it. Hitherfore, the Browns were accustomed to playing before a lot of vacant seats. The show-me-boys performed 12 times at home under the lamps, attracting 124,480 fans. The figures left the front office force somewhat befuddled. . . .

Although his playing days are numbered, Walter Hagen is still the top showman in golf. Hagen's an ace on the fairways as well as off the field. At Hershey, Pa., recently, the colorful Hag spent a few minutes each day during the pro tourney in the suds room. Hagen picked up bar and restaurant checks totalling $196. Four other pros were quibbling at another table over who would pay $1.20 for sodas. . . .

The surprise team of the east may be Columbia. Lou Little's club is picked to win six of the nine tiffs on the board. Handicapped by lack of reserves, Lugubrious Lou now has a lot of strength on the bench. . . . Joe Louis may fight in California. Who? Your guess is as good as any. . . . Michigan State plays its second night game in the history of the school on October 18, meeting Temple at Philly. . . .

Texas A And M Is Favored In South

Texas Aggies Have Another Powerhouse Team This Year, Is Report

Southern Methodist, Baylor, And Texas Christian Also Have Strong Elevens

By DAVE PARK
International News Service Sports Writer

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 23.—The generally accepted number-one team of 1939 football came from the southwest, but several pretenders to that throne have risen to challenge Texas A. and M.

Never before in Southwest Conference history has a team so favored to repeat for the title as are the Aggies today. Virtually the entire membership of the outfit which finished a regular season undefeated and untied, and went on to win the Sugar Bowl game from Tulane, is back in uniform.

Kimbrough Ready

Jarrin' John Kimbrough, All-American in his Junior year, is ready to pound opposing lines to pieces as before.

A well-balanced, diversified offensive will be demonstrated by power in three waves, if Coach Homer Martin choses to use his men in that manner.

Yet there's championship and bowl talk on the campuses of Southern Methodist, Baylor, Texas and even Texas Christian. Most serious threat to the Aggies last year, S. M. U. is even stronger today with the return of Ray Mallouf to action. Regulars on the Baylor team are being shelved in favor of sophmores who may bring the Golden Bear to previously-unscaled heights. Cowboy Jack Crain is ready to run wild once more for the orange and white of Texas, and the fourth year of the "Bible Plan" at that school is rumored ready to pay dividends in the form of headaches and shattered ambitions for the Steers' opponents.

T. C. U., one of the outstanding disappointments of last fall, is not likely to stage a repeat of the injury wave and one and two point defeats which plagued it last year. At every point except center the Horned Frogs are amply fortified, and there Captain Lefty Alexander may find the iron man assignment

South Hills Grabs Crown

Trips West Side, 9-3, Sunday, For Third Consecutive Victory

South Hills copped the 1940 championship of the City-County Independent Baseball League in New York Yankee fashion — three straights over the West Side A. C.

In yesterday's game at Lee avenue, the Hillers trailed up to the seventh frame. Then, the mountain boys went to work, scoring seven runs in three innings. The West Siders got off to a 3-0 lead by the end of the fifth.

All told, 23 hits were rapped out, nine of them going for extra bases. Champ, South Hills shortstop, whacked a homer while J. Bulisco and Brooks, teammates, contributed triples. Mike Frengel, who hurled a pair of no-hitters during the past season, held the sixth warders to seven singles.

Manager Joe Augustine today said that South Hills is interested in battling the winner of the Ellwood-Lawrence Indies series.

Bessemer-Moose Split Twin Bill

Sunday at the Bessemer field, the Bessemer team of the County league and the Moose of the City league split a double bill, the Moose winning the first game 10 to 2, and Bessemer 3 to 0 the second game.

Hall opposed Tomasello the first game, and was the winning hurler. Morrison was on the hill for the Moose the second game and was credited with the loss. The winning hurler was Hardesty.

Bessemer Trips Hubbard Eleven

First Period Pass, Crubisa To Gallo, Nets Lawrence Countians 7-0 Victory

(Special To The News)

HUBBARD, Sept. 23—Substitute Crubisa pitched a 28 yard touchdown pass to Gallo in the opening period to give Bessemer High a well earned 7-0 triumph here over Hubbard, Saturday afternoon. The game marked the opening of the grid season for both combinations.

What proved to be the winning play came late in the opening quarter after the Lawrence Countians managed to piece their opponent's 35. Johnson and Swanson punched the line on successive attempts, reaching Hubbard's 28. Then, Grubisa faded back and pegged an aerial into the waiting arms of Gallo who caught the spheroid on the 17 and raced for a tochdown. McCree's placement split the uprights.

During the rest of the game, the spectators watched a punting duel. Neither team was able to move far past the 50-yard stripe. In the second, however, Hubbard pushed to Bessemer's 40 but was halted. Again in the fourth, Hubbard reached their foes 38. Bessemer5s sturdy wall met the challenge successfully.

For an opening game, Bessemer looked impressive against one of the toughest foes the Red and Black clad horde will meet this season.

Next Saturday, Bessemer invades Ursuline High's den.

Indians Hammer Tigers 10 To 5

Creep Back To Within Game Of First Place In Torrid American League Race

By ED KIELY
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—The beginning of the end of the 1940 baseball season, a season replete with drama, comedy and a revolting pennant contender, was at hand today, assuring a bitter battle in the closely knit American league until the final days of the campaign.

Officially the season closes Sunday and it is quite possible the junior circuit champions will be not crowned until that day. For on the final days, the leading Tigers and the second-place Indians meet in another all-important three-game series, the outcome of which will answer the enigmatic question of the sports world.

No Games Today

The Tigers, taking the Indians two out of three games in their hectic series last week, lead the race by one full game, and the Tribe, in the second position, is only two and one-half games ahead of the Yankees, who have dug in for a last-ditch stand.

No games are scheduled in the American league today. On Tuesday, as a prelude to "September world's series," which opens in cleveland Friday, the Tigers battle the White Sox, a team which has the best pitching in the league, according to no less an authority than Jimmy Foxx, and the Indians meet the Browns, who take great delight in "giant-killing" contenders for the flag.

The Yankees, backs-to-the-wall but still fighting for their fifth consecutive pennant, have eight games remaining, five with woefully weak Washington and three with still-weaker Philadelphia. Unless the front-runners collapse completely, however, the New Yorkers will have to win practically every game to figure in the finish.

Feller Wins 27th

Bob Feller, working more than his share in these hectic days, pitched an eight-hitter and hammered a homer as the Indians salvaged the final game of the series from the Tigers, 10 to 5.

The crying Clevelanders helped rapid Robert gain his 27th victory before an overflowing crowd of 55,771 by battering six hurlers for 12 safeties, including four homers in addition to Feller's. Hank Greenberg collected his 40th four-bagger for the Tigers.

George Selkirk kept the Yankees chances aglow by smashing two homers and a double as New York carved out a 6 to 3 triumph over the Red Sox. It was the final contest of the year between the two rivals, the Yanks taking the series 13 games to nine.

Senators Win Two

The Senators trounced the Athletics twice, 5 to 4 and 5 to 2, to guarantee the Philadelphians complete possession of the cellar and Ted Lyons, baseball's only Sunday hurler, threw a six-hitter as the White Sox whitewashed the Browns, 10 to 0.

Over in the National league, where they are playing mostly for the practice, Cincinnati's champion Reds, interested mainly in who will be their opponents in October, divided a double-header with the Pirates, winning the first game, 2 to 1 and dropping the nightcap, 8 to 1.

Amazing Freddie Fitzsimmons, who played with many of yesteryear's stars who returned to celebrate "old timers day" in Brooklyn, won his 16th victory of the season as the Dodgers trimmed the Phillies, 10 to 2 in the opener of a double-header. Brooklyn also took the nightcap, which was called in the eighth inning by agreement, 5 to 2.

The Cardinals took the Cubs twice, 8 to 1 and 2 to 1 and the Giants and the Bees divided two contests, the Bees copping the first game, 4 to 4 and the Giants the second, 7 to 3.

Fordham Outlook Very Promising

Sunny Jim Crowley Will Have Another Powerhouse Team, Is Reported

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 23—For years and years the slogan at Fordham University was "from Rose Hill to Rose Bowl."

That slogan has been abandoned this year despite the fact that Jim Crowley, one of Knute Rockne's four horsemen at Notre Dame, has what may prove to be the best football team that ever tore up the well kept turf on Fordham's Rose Hill.

Crowley Has Hopes

Sunny Jim has no hope of an unbeaten season but he looks with equanimity on one of the most testing schedules in the land, a schedule that includes West Virginia, Tulane, Pitt, St. Mary's of California, North Carolina, Purdue, Arkansas and New York University.

Jim cheerfully admits Tulane, Purdue and Arkansas may bowl over his hard-bitten Rams, but, he adds, "they'll know they've been in a battle."

Fordham's teams have always been noted for their touchness on defense and the seven blocks of granite a few years back comprised one of the most powerful defensive units ever seen on a college campus.

Jim has another tremendous line this year but what is of even more interest to Fordham he has two sets of fleet, hard-hitting backs who can pass and kick as well as they run. In other words, Fordham is all set for a high-scoring year.

Two Fine Teams

The Maroon boasts two teams of almost equal strength but back of those 22 men there are few reserves. Many a coach get a laugh when they read this but it's a fact that Fordhamites speak of a shortage of reserves whenever they have less than four or five "first" teams.

Here's the set-up as Crowley sees it: "I know it's an old saying around the country that the other teams not only can't beat us; they can't even pronounce us. But this time I have 16 Irish on the squad.

"Of course, I still have a few unpronounceables like Claude Pieculiewicz, for instance. On my first team there are two Lithuanians, one German, two Poles, three Italians, and three Irish like myself. And they're all football players.

Onoretta-Roach Win Pro-Amateur

Annual PGA Tourney Is On At Cambridge Springs Course Today

Monty Onoretta, pro at the Schenley Park course of Pittsburgh, and Hal Roach, also of Pittsburgh, put together at 31-31-62 card to take first place in the annual P.G.A. pro-amateur tournament under way at the Cambridge Springs course, Sunday.

Par for the course is 69, the best ball of the two players being seven under these figures.

Angelo Monsey, pro at the New Castle Field club, and Steve Kovach of Pittsburgh, who are teamed in the tourney, had scores of 34-33-67, while Toney Factor and C. W. Jackson of Ellwood City, turned in a card of 32-37-69.

TEXAS A AND M IS FAVORED IN SOUTH

as easily as it was for Ki Aldrich, another in the long line of great T. C. U. centers.

Two Weak Sisters

Oddly enough, however, this conference which is bursting with power apparently has two "weak sisters" to contend with. Rice, under the new coaching regime of Jess Neely, is expected to be a slow starter. Arkansas lost almost all its stars in the June diploma-giving and Coach Fred Thomsen himself is sincerely dubious about the coming season.

It is a tasty gridiron menu the Southwest Conference has served up for the delectation of the fans this year. In addition to Tulsa's Games with four league members and relatively into-sectional skirmishes with Centenary and Oklahoma, there are these special dishes: A. and M. and S. M. U. vs. U. C. L. A.; Texas vs. Colorado, Indiana, Florida; T. C. U. vs. North Carolina and Detroit; Baylor vs. Denver and Villanova; S. M. U. vs. Pittsburg and Auburn; Rice vs. L. S. U. and Tulane; and Arkansas vs. Mississippi U. and Fordham. Two of these—Baylor-Villanova and A. and M.-Tulsa—are scheduled for the new stadium at San Antonio.

Ellwood High Wins From Munhall 19-13

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 23—After having taken a 6-0 lead in the first quarter, relinquishing it 7 to 6 at the half, forging ahead 12 to 7, in the third period minutes later, getting into second place 13 to 12, the Ellwood City high school Wolverines staged a deadly "airkreig" Saturday afternoon in the telling period to win an unexpected 19 to 13 victory over Munhall high school on Saturday afternoon on the loser's home turf.

Although there was a strong wind that played havoc with many of the passes and punts, hundreds of Ellwood fans took advantage of the warm, autumn day debut to see their favorite hometown sons in action and came home with the knowledge that the team, while inexperienced would be a foe to be reckoned with by the strong valley teams that they will meet during the coming weeks.

Praise For Ellwood

Warm praise was heard for the Ellwood coaches, Croft, Gills, and Burry, who have had to build an entirely new team this year around three varsity players. The game was played entirely without the services of Paul Cartwright, who is one of the best blocking quarters Ellwood has had in many years. He has a badly injured ankle and it is doubtful if he will be able to play for many weeks. Although no bones are broken, he cannot put his weight on his foot.

Tom Reino and Rus Snare, both handicapped by leg injuries were the stars of the play that won the game for the Blue and White. The touchdown climaxed a drive from Ellwood's twenty. Moskal took 6 yards on the spread, Reino in an off tackle play that consistently worked well against Munhall with the Ellwood interference holding up, added 14, then with Lordo added 7 more; Lordo heaved a pass to Tammaro which was good for 12 markers. This was followed by a beautiful play, Lordo passed to Mattocks, who lateralled to Reino for 15 more. Reino went out on injuries when he was tackled by Connelly and was replaced by DeCario an able Junior reserve.

Fine Play Scores

In the next plays Lordo hitting first the left and then the right side of the Munhall line picked up 29 yards and the ball was on the 6 yard marker. The Munhall line tightened and it was fourth down and Ellwood had 6 yards to go for a touchdown victory. With excitement running high in the stands, Croft sent the injured Reino into the contest, resulting in a 5 yard penalty for Ellwood for too many times out. Taking the ball on the eleven yard line and the final chance, Reino pushing aside the onrushing Munhall team, cooly stepped back and with perfect accuracy shot a beautiful pass to Snare, in the end zone, who snatched it from the up-raised hands of a Munhall player. Rubino filled Cartwright's place at Quarter on Saturday and handled it with the ease of a veteran and it was he, who with a perfect tackle, took out the Munhall end that would have broken up the winning pass. Lordo added the extra point by a line buck.

Ellwood drew first blood early in the first quarter. They took the ball on Munhall's 40. Snare picked up 13 yards on line smashes. Reino took up ten by a tackle hit. Snare went around left end for 14 yards and was forced out of bounds on Munhall's 5. The field was also used for a baseball diamond and the markings were a little confusing to the Ellwood players. Reino hit the weak right side of the Munhall brigade for the first touchdown in the next period.

Munhall Scores

Munhall came back strong and scored early in the second period following a 57 yard march, when Ellwood's pass defense failed to click a singe time. Hlasnich passed to Bair for 16 yards and then another heave from Hlasnick to Vasko was good for 15 more and the ball was on Ellwood's 3. Vasko went across on a reserve from the three yard line. Hlasnick smashed the line for the extra point and the steelers were out in front 7 to 6 and stayed there until the third period .

A tit for tat fumble set-up paved the way for the second touchdowns for both sides. After the second-half kick off, Ross recovered a Munhall fumble on the 11-yard marker. Reino first hit the line for Ellwood and then Matrangol went across from the 1-yard line and Ellwood was again leading 12 to 7.

In the next few plays, Munhall recovered an Ellwood fumble on Ellwood's 20. Hlas, George and Vasko carried the ball for Munhall, aided by two Ellwood penalties for half the distance to the goal line. Hlas hit the line for the final "breakover" and the Munhall tribe was again in the "driver's seat," 13 to 12. Ellwood's winning drive followed.

Highly Exciting

It was a highly exciting game from start to finish between two well-matched teams and was one that well repaid the Ellwood supporters for the long trip.

Leading players for Munhall were Hlasnick and Basko, of the backfield for offense, and Badalato and Hlasnick, backfield, on defense and Mosenko, Bausch and Lucas were best in the line on defense.

For Ellwood, Reino, Matrangol, Snare and Lordo led the back on offense and Matrangol and Reino were outstanding on defense. Pishioneri, who made a great many tackles in the first half, and Dudick were best in the line.

Next Friday night, the locals will play their other night game of the season at Lincoln field, where they will entertain Rochester high, who were surprisingly upset Saturday afternoon by Midland, another team to be met later in the season by Ellwood.

Between the halves, the Munhall band led by eleven pretty majorettes, performed in an entertaining manner, adding color to the afternoon's spectacle. The Ellwood band did not accompany the team.

John Ralph Moore, 731 First avenue, driver of the truck belonging to the Moore and Moore company, Portersville, told state motor police that he was traveling west on the bridge when he saw a car approaching at a fast rate of speed in the opposite direction on his side of the road. Unable to get off the bridge, he told officers, that he stopped his truck and with his son, John, braced himself for the crash.

Miles Christy, driver of the car, told the officer that he had been hit in the eye by an insect, temporarily obscuring his vision, and that he did not see the truck until it was impossible to stop. Private Polosky, of the motor police, investigated the accident and said that there were a number of witnesses who gave Moore's version of the crash.

Moore and his son, John, received only minor injuries and were treated by the rescue squad of the fire department, who answered a call for help.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESSERALL

We all feel just a little better this morning . . . the war is still raging over there but the kidnaper of little two year old Marc De Tristan has been captured and returned to justice. Kidnaping we believe is a worse crime than murder and should be dealt with in the same way . . . but we are glad the little boy is back in good health and feel that several million other American citizens feel the same.

* * *

Here is a little piece that was sent in and it sort of hits us in a soft spot . . . it was written by a columnist on the "Caller-Times" Corpus Christi, Texas.

"I pray thee, make my column read;
And give me thus my daily bread.
Endow me, if thou grant me wit,
Likewise with sense to mellow it.
Save me from feeling so much hate
My food will not assimilate.
Open my eyes that I may see
The world with more of charity,
And lesson me in good intents
And make me friend of innocence.
Make me (sometimes, at least) discreet.
Help me to hide my self conceit;
And give me courage now and then
To be as dull as are most men
To be as dull as are most men,
And give me readers quick to see
When I am satirizing ME."

Some colleges have started their football season . . . and that means that a lot of talk will be made by friends who attended different schools of higher learning . . what school has the best team . . . how many games did they win last year . . . but whatever it is . . . you must stick up for your Alma Mater . . . we personally think that Penn State will do good this year . . . their first game is October 5 at State College.

* * *

It pays to read the classified ads . . . they really have something on the ball.

For Eighth Straight Day Market Is Higher, Some Stocks Up Six Points

By LESLIE GOULD
(International News Service Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—The stock market picked up momentum on the upside today in its eighth straight advance. Leaders rose as much as a point, and special issues, again including many preferred shares, were up 6 or more.

Turnover in the first hour totaled 200,000 shares, or about double the average for the period in recent weeks.

All sections participated. A few issues were backward at the opening, but as the market gained headway on the upswing these minus signs were quickly erased.

General Steel Castings preferred was one of the strong spots among the senior issues, spurting 5 points to a new 1940 high above 36. Turnover was large for this usually inactive stock.

Budd Manufacturing preferred soared 6 points, Otis Steel first preferred about 4 and American Locomotive preferred about 2.

Among the common shares Down Chemical ran up 2½ points and Eastman Kodak 2. Gains of a point or more were registered by U. S. Steel, Crucible, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, American Telephone, Case, Oliver Farm, U. S. Smelting, Pullman, Liggett & Myers "B" and Owens-Illinois Glass.

Suggest Teachers Register Draftees

Commissioners Gathering At Harrisburg Gives Consideration To Proposal

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 23.—At a meeting this afternoon with Gov. Arthur H. James, county commissioners from the state's 67 counties will be asked to study a suggestion to have school teachers take over the task of registering draftees on October 16.

The meeting, scheduled for 3 p. m. E. S. T., was called by Governor James to discuss a program to register at Pennsylvania's 8069 polling places more than 1,500,000 men between the ages of 21 and 35 for possible military service.

Morton Witkin, chairman of the Philadelphia county commissioners board, has indicated that a plan to declare a holiday to permit teachers to man the registration boards would be discussed at today's conference.

Governor James has stated that board members would be asked to serve without pay.

Dr. Clarence E. Ackley, deputy superintendent of public instruction, declared that school laws empower local boards only to decree special holidays. He pointed out that teachers in Pennsylvania are not paid for such holidays.

The mine cars had pulled against the drum and had snapped the cable. Rescuers were forced to use an acetylene torch to free the body from the drum.

Examination For Relief Director

Announcement Made Of Plans For Selection Of Executive For County

The Employment board of the Pennsylvania Department of Public Assistance today announced that an unassembled examination for the position of executive director of the Lawrence County Board of Public Assistance will be held shortly.

No application will be accepted if postmarked later than midnight October 11, 1940, the announcement said.

Harry G. Harris becomes acting executive director of the county board when the designation of James W. Moorehead takes effect September 30. Harris has been county office manager for the board.

The county assistance board will convene in its South Mill street headquarters tonight at 7:30 to discuss relief administration here and possibly to make minor appointments, Board Secretary Ivor M. Richards said.

Richards explained that the approaching examination is open to all legal residents of the county and that the unassembled exam will consist of a very careful evaluation of the education, training and experience of applicants. The examination will not be a written one. Application forms may be obtained at the relief office.

The salary range for the post is $3,000 to $3,600.

Reports Home Is Robbed Of $500

Two men allegedly robbed Mrs. Bernice Abramski, 1605 Hanna street, of $500 Friday, according to a report she made to city police Saturday morning.

The money was removed from a trunk in a room occupied by her son, Henry. Alongside the trunk was discovered $500 in pseudo bills, police reported.

Mrs. Abramski first saw the men Monday. They apparently were "checking houses". One of the men talked to her in Polish. The other man stayed in an auto with a Pennsylvania license.

On Wednesday the men returned to the section and also on Friday when the man who talked Polish entered her home and asked permission to go to the bathroom.

Permission was granted and later the discovery of the loss of $500 was made.

Pleads Guilty To "Tipsy" Driving

Earl Moon, 25 Front street, was arrested following a South Jefferson street auto accident Saturday night and was charged with driving an auto while intoxicated.

The charge was made before Alderman O. H. P. Green by Chief of Detectives R. A. Criswell. Moon reportedly pleaded guilty and in default of bail was held for court sentence Friday. It was reported Moon's car struck one driven by Gaylord Arkwright of Ellwood City R. D. 2.

Tells City Eagles Grand Lodge Aims

Past National President Heller Speaks At Sunday Initiation

"The Fraternal Order of Eagles has done more good for the greatest number of underprivileged and poor than any other fraternal organization in the country." John W. Heller, Jr., of York, past grand worthy president of the order, declared Sunday afternoon before a large audience in the Eagles home, South Jefferson and South streets.

Heller was guest of honor of New Castle Aerie 455 at the special class initiation honoring all past worthy presidents of the organization.

Another past national president of the Eagles, Charles C. Gunther, of Pittsburgh was master-of-ceremonies.

Worthy President Louis C. Krueger headed the New Castle degree team which handled the initiation of a large class of new members.

Referring to the nation-wide work of the F. O. E., Past Grand Worthy President Heller, the principal speaker, asserted in part.

"Because there is a Fraternal Order of Eagles 1,900,000 needy aged are today receiving pensions, more than 750,000 dependent children are being cared for through mothers' pensions, and the families of thousands of workingmen who have been injured or killed in occupational accidents are receiving aid under the workmen's compensation laws."

Heller said every state has old-age pension laws today while not one had such a law when the Eagles began its campaign for the needy aged in 1921.

Citing the federal Social Security act as the final fruit of the order's educational campaign in the interest of the underprivileged, Heller went on to tell of the plan now being sponsored by Eagles in behalf of the American workingman.

Passage of the Eagles'-Ludlow bill to stabilize employment, the leader said, is now a chief aim of the Eagles.

Explaining that, he said:

"Our bill offers a practical solution to America's most urgent social and economic problem, namely, steady jobs. The Eagles'-Ludlow bill provides for a federal industrial commission of five men who would analyze economic problems in the light of both group and national interests. For instance, the problems of labor would be studied not only as they affect the workingman, but also as they affect the farmer, merchant, professional man and the investor, who puts his savings in business. From these many studies, the commission would make recommendations to the President and the Congress as how best to balance production and consumption in industry and agriculture, to encourage capital and to give to labor steady jobs at a saving wage."

The Eagles host enjoyed lunch at the close of the initiation.

TWO SMALL FIRES

City firemen answered two small fires over Sunday, the loss being slight in both cases.

No. 5 company was called to the store of Paul Matuszewski, of 30 West Long avenue, about 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon, where a fire in an awning was extinguished.

At 12:45 o'clock this morning, they were summoned to the Fairlawn store at 662 East Washington street, where an electric motor was found to have overheated. The damage was slight.
